In the Supreme Judicial Court in Boston, Monday, the suit filed against the city by residents of Rolling Acres, Oak Hill, for the revocation of building permits issued by the city for the construction of Luftron prefabricated houses, was heard. Named also in the suit was the Beacon Construction Company of Brookline, as respondents.

The State Board of Standards had compelled the city to issue building permits for the construction of three prefabricated steel-enamel homes by the company.

Counsel for the petitioners, Harold Brown, stated that the statute under which the Board of Standards was created is unconstitutional because it did not provide for "equal protection under the laws" and also because it was illegal delegation of legislative power and an illegal delegation of power to suspend the laws.

Should the court find in favor of the petitioners, the authority of the State Board of Standards will be waived.

The contest over the construction of the steel-enamel homes in Rolling Acres is also the subject of two bills in the legislature which seek to have the authority of the State Board of Standards revoked.

At the close of the hearing the court took the case under advisement and a decision will be rendered later.

"We feel," said Mrs. Tornabene, "that the programs suited to the needs and interests of the parents are the most successful."

In the preliminary report of this committee, the PTA's were urged to choose a theme for the years programs and build the interest of each meeting around it. A few valuable suggestions were to send the year's program to each parent in the fall and follow up with a written or telephone notice before each meeting, to use speakers available in the community, to have Open House at the schools as well as "Back to School" evenings when the parents are taught the three R's. Other suggested programs included slides and movies of the schools in action, travel pictures, Brotherhood Night with ministers of the Catholic, Protestant and Jewish faiths participating, Panel Discussions, and programs designed to bridge the gap between the elementary and Junior High School. A film, "Fight for Better Schools," is being offered to the parent groups and has already been shown with great success at a Bowen School PTA meeting.

Raise $815 at Rummage Sale To Entertain Maryland Group

A rummage sale was held by the Workshop in Leadership and Community Life of Newton High School at the Newtonville Women's Club last Saturday. The event was directed by the parents with the assistance of the exchange students and the Red Cross, in order to raise funds for the expense of entertaining the twenty-five Frederick, Maryland, students who are expected in Newton May 7.

Through the sale of donated articles of clothing, furniture, household utensils, books, and knick-knacks, $815 was made.

He is risen. The stone has rolled aside!
Still bearing the bitter wounds of thorn and spear;
Unto His Father's house to now abide,
His resurrection banished mankind's endless fear.

Centuries move on and kings and emperors depart,
Without a trace... His glory is the light;
Bringing new hope to every human heart,
Though long and endless be the darkest night.

Pity those who in our day seek to replace,
The image of His form nailed to a wooden cross;
To take from out our mind that tear-stained face,
Or call His days of agony, a total loss.

He has risen! Let man take hope anew,
For are we not His children? Taught His way;
Obey His laws and to our own selves be true,
Then we shall know the glory of a resurrection day.

Missing Boy and Girl Return Home Tuesday

The adventure of an 18-year-old Newton boy and a 16-year-old Dorchester girl, missing from their homes since Saturday night, ended Tuesday afternoon when they returned home after an extensive tour of Connecticut and New York state.

A scarcity of funds, concern over their worried parents and their inability to obtain a marriage license in New York, forced them to give up their romantic ideas of an elopement, according to the pretty, brown-haired Dorchester girl.

House Votes Bank Right To Property

Following a stiff fight in the Legislature Monday, the House voted 127 to 94 to permit the Newton-Waltham Bank and Trust Company to continue holding an apartment house across the street from its Newton quarters.

Representative John C. Brennan, Dem., of Lawrence, pointed out that banks are prohibited by law from retaining real estate over five years. The bank has had the property for 40 years and its heating plant is located in the building.

Representative A. John Serino, Rep., of Cambridge, warned against setting a precedent that may lead to other banks seeking to retain foreclosed property.

Supporting the bill was Representative Whitmore, Jr., Rep., of Newton, who said the bank needed the property to furnish heat for its own quarters.

Bank Commissioner Timothy J. Donovan has opposed the bill as dangerous because of the precedent involved.

Miss Wolff Dies After Receiving Burns at Home

Miss Fernanda C. Wolff, 82, of 116 Church street, Newton, succumbed at the Newton-Wellesley Hospital Sunday afternoon from burns received at her home Saturday afternoon. Her clothing was ignited accidentally while she was preparing her evening meal.

Alone in the kitchen at the time, she ran into the dining room and her screams were heard by Miss Jessie Ball, who resided with her. Miss Ball hastened to the rescue and succeeded in extinguishing the burning clothes by wrapping a rug around Miss Wolff. She then notified the Police and Fire Departments and Miss Wolff was removed to the hospital in the police ambulance and she was found to have received first and second degree burns about the body.

Miss Wolff, born in Galveston, Texas, lived in Newton for 32 years and in her business as a probate accountant, maintained an office in Barristers Hall, Pemberton square, Boston.

Despite her age, she attended business daily and had been at her office last Friday.

The pair are believed to have participated in the theft of $40,000 in jewels from Greater Boston homes recently. At 2 a.m., Friday, following the capture of Herman T. Hebert, 20, of Tremont street, Boston, near Hebert's home, O'Neil picked up the trail of the pair that led him through Rhode Island and Connecticut to New York. Visiting day at the West Newton Community Centre, Inc., a Newton Red Feather Service, is always a joyous occasion. Such, was last Thursday when all the dancing classes played host to parents and friends. Miss Esther M. Kelley is the instructor and Mrs. Ralph Sommers the accompanist. The members of the classes for older children were obviously enjoying themselves but were none the less intent upon perfect rhythm. The ballroom dancing class for boys and girls of junior high age combined the fun of a party and the effort necessary for learning more about the art of poise and grace on the dance floor.

State Track Meet Likely To Abandon Dickinson Field For White Stadium

Although there has been no formal announcement as yet, there are indications that the state championship schoolboy track games May 27 will be shifted from their traditional site at Dickinson Stadium to the new White Stadium in Boston and that the games will be held there in the future.

Monte Wells, State Meet director and Bill Ohrenberger of the Boston system met recently to iron out all the final details and the official okay of the shift is expected this week.

The necessity is exemplified by the happenings of a year ago when the meet was first raised from two classes to four, A, B, C, and D. The 1949 meet opened at 10 a. m., hours earlier than ever before, yet it didn't finish until about 7 p. m.

White stadium, unlike any other in these parts, is equipped, not only with an outstanding cinder oval track, but with two 220-yard straightaways. It means that for all distances up to 220 yards, there can be simultaneous competition on both straight-aways.

There are four such events, two dashes, 100 and 220, plus two hurdles, 120 high and 200 low. Beyond that, those straight-aways are much wider than those here at Newton, so that six hurdlers may compete in one heat (five in Newton) and up to ten dashmen in one heat (six in Newton). It follows, naturally, that less heats will be necessary.

The White stadium also has similarly expansive facilities for multiple competitions in the field events, two broad jump pits, two pits for high jumps, and four rings for shot puts.

Golf Movies to Be Shown April 14

Kent School of Golf will have an Open House Friday evening, April 14, at 8 p. m. at the Newton Y.M.C.A.

Several of the well-known New England golfers are expected to be present and give short exhibitions.

Mr. John H. Kent, professional at the Wellesley Country Club, and instructor of the school will give a short talk on "Consistent Results" which is the subject of the evening's lesson.

John M. Leonard To Head VFW Post

The Lt. Stanton M. Amesbury Post, V.F.W., at its annual meeting held at the Auburndale Library Hall Monday night, elected John M. Leonard, 26, Army veteran of European service, as commander. Installation ceremonies will be held April 29.

Connors, Jr., trustee; Willard Zierlebel, judge advocate; Dr. Thomas Chretien, surgeon; Harry J. Murphy, delegate and Thomas H. Brown, alternate to Middlesex County Council.

Quincy and South Shore Chess Clubs Defeat Newton

It was Quincy's turn to win, and they did, ten and one-half to four and one-half, at the Quincy "Y." It was agreed to play eighteen boards, but since Quincy was short four men, Newton "Y" loaned them two players, evening the match at fifteen boards.

Paul Worcester, Vice President of the Mass. State Chess Federation and President of the Quincy Chess Club acted as captain of their forces, while Vincent Hoagland, President of the Newton "Y" Chess Club lead his delegation. None of the players of the Commonwealth "Y" team played in the match as they were giving a "Bon Voyage" party to their captain, George Hopwood, who is sailing to England on April 8th.

The Matches.—John Hubert of Newton "Y" drew with Medley, Richard Bean of Newton "Y" lost to Bates. Morris of Quincy defeated Lester Gee. D. Leighton Ordway of Newton "Y" lost to King. Hodges of Quincy "Y" defeated John Yarlett. Mihvel Piperal of Newton "Y" lost to McKenna. Garvin of Quincy "Y" defeated Harrison Coggeshall. Roy Cowe of Newton "Y" lost to Blass. Our Lady's Baseball Season To Open Sunday, April 16

Baseball activities for Our Lady's in the Catholic League Division 2 will begin on Sunday, April 16 and extend through May 17, according to a league schedule released by officials. Coach Jim Sullivan has a fine crop of diamond aspirants for this season, a total of 33, of which 12 are lettermen.

The baseball picture at Our Lady's is expected to improve over last year, when the squad finished with a 5-11 record. Sullivan has the same boys back, losing no one through graduation, and is looking forward to laurels in the Division 2 competition.

Wrestling Bouts To Be Held Next Wednesday

All star professional wrestling is continuing at the state armory in Waltham with three more professional bouts scheduled for next Wednesday night, April 12. Matchmaker Fred Bruno, who is in charge of arranging the shows for the Waltham National Guard, is now lining up another top card for next Wednesday.

Last week the girl wrestlers, including Violet Vian, were the feature attraction on the card and drew a capacity crowd to the Waltham armory. A repeat heavy crowd is looked for at the show coming up next week. Miss Vian will again appear in a future show.

Wrestlers par excellence with a moderate price scale is termed responsible for the many persons attending the Waltham indoor shows each week, it was pointed out by Matchmaker Bruno. No stone is left unturned to bring the best wrestlers available anywhere to the Waltham armory.

date of May 1 when the 20 selected women will assume their duties, if all goes according to plan.

Temporary appointments of the 20 officers, which was made possible last week when the Board of Aldermen approved a five-day week for the police department and appropriated $20,000 for the women officers, was authorized by the Civil Service Commission. Appointees, however, will be required to take examinations, but it will take almost three months before civil service can decide on permanent appointments.

Of the novel idea, for Newton that is, Chief Purcell has only a favorable comment, saying, "I see no reason why the women's patrol corps should not be a complete success. Their service to the city will allow the department's patrolmen to carry out other duties in the city where they are needed." He added that the women will not direct traffic on busy streets, but only at the 40-odd elementary and grammar schools in the city where traffic is light.

They will not be armed, nor have the power of arrest, but can report any traffic violators to headquarters. Time of duty will be about two hours a day, which includes time in the morning, recess time at noon, and in the afternoon when the children

Chief Purcell has reported that a surprisingly large percentage of applicants are married women, but said that screening officers, under the direction of Lieut. Charles E. As yet, no official title has been chosen, but there have been various suggestions. One that Chief Purcell likes is the Newton Women's Auxiliary School Patrol of the Newton Police Department. Their equipment will consist of an identifying badge and a police whistle. Uniforms will be of blue serge, but as yet there has been no decision on the question of the type of cap. It will be either the overseas or visor type.

Far-Sighted Training Program At High School Likely To Pay Dividends

Credit must be given to the high school's far-sighted training program as well as to Coach Howie Ferguson if Newton makes any headway in the Suburban baseball league this Spring.

When 150 candidates answered Ferguson's first call recently, the Newton coach could locate only two 1949 lettermen among the horde. There were co-captains Dick Rycroft, second baseman, and John Thomas, 6 foot 4 inch southpaw pitcher.

But, thanks to Newton's system of having intermediate and junior varsity squads play full schedules each Spring, Ferguson has a fair idea of what his lineup will be today (Thursday) when the Tigers open the season against Medford.

Unlike most coaches in this area who are obliged to flip a coin when trying to determine the merit between one candidate and another, Ferguson at least knows what most of his candidates have accomplished in the lower diamond echelons here.

Basing his decisions on intermediate and J.V. performances of last year, Ferguson already has shaved his squad down to 25 players. Every position, except second base is still open. The contenders for each position are:

First base: Jim Lee, Al Finney and Pete Santucci.

Second base: Dick Rycroft, John Higgins and Charlie Brown.

Third base: Barky Boole, Don Thompson and Neil Campbell.

Shortstop: Boy Keyho, Dick Sullivan and John Kreider.

Outfield: Fred Keith, John Geary, Curt Fithian, Bert Peck, and Tom Kain.

Catcher: Jim Landry, Dick Beatty, and Dan Coffey.

Pitchers: John Thomas, Bob Schlosberg, Givson Studley, Fred Sutherland, Ronnie Rufo and John Dutton.

vided the second exit and by having it extended to Dedham street, would from a safety point of view make it indispensable. The only exit at the present time from the village is through Wiswall road on the opposite end of the Park from Saw Mill Brook Parkway. Extension of the Parkway to Dedham street would provide exits on opposite ends of the development.

New Memorial School at Oak Hill to Be Ready in Fall

According to Superintendent

Harold B. Gores, of the School Department, the new Memorial School at Oak Hill Park, will be ready for occupancy in the Fall but the entire facilities of the building will not be completed until several months after that.

The kindergarten and eight or ten class rooms are expected to be in readiness for classes in September but work on the auditorium and playrooms will be delayed so that work on the kindergarten can be speeded.

The school will be a two-story brick building and will include a double kindergarten, fourteen classrooms, a playroom, auditorium and a general utility room.

When the school opens it is expected that three kindergarten sections and eight classrooms will be required for the expected pupil population and teachers will be transferred to the Memorial School from other schools and some new teachers engaged.

Plans are being made for an adult evening program at the school next year. It is proposed as an expansion of the adult classes now being given at the Weeks Junior High School, attended largely by residents of Oak Hill. The new school will also serve as a community center for Oak Hill Park activities and meetings of the Oak Hill Park Association, the Women's Club of Oak Hill Park, Boy Scouts and Girl S outs.

Congratulations, Lt. O'Neil

The trailing and capture of two alleged burglars who are said to be involved in some of the recent ransacking of homes in Newton, was a feat of no small proportions. Lt. George W. O'Neil of the local police department merits commendation for the perseverance and fortitude which he displayed and exhibited in bringing about the capture of these suspects.

In recent months, several burglaries, some of major proportions, have occurred in homes in Newton.

Some individuals are all too ready to criticize police and police departments and more than not, these criticisms are without foundation. The tracking down of criminals, who leave few if any clues, is no small task and often it takes great patience and much detail work to even establish remotely, the detection of those responsible for crime.

Lt. O'Neil, because of his patience and his thoroughness of purpose, has proved himself a most capable and highly efficient officer and we feel sure his efforts will be publicly acknowledged and recognized.

The solving of this phase of the recent series of burglaries here is the fourth to be accomplished by the Newton Police department and should prove beyond a doubt that Newton has an alert, capable and efficient body of men, from Chief Philip Purcell right down the line, protecting the life and property of its citizens.

The Dutch Elm Disease

Nothing enhances the beauty of a community so much as do beautiful trees. In this respect Newton is an excellent example, for its miles of streets are lined with old and beautiful trees, standing silent and majestically over and around the many fine homes here.

Yet all this is constantly threatened because of the dread Dutch Elm disease which attacks these stately elms, not only here but in neighboring communities as well.

The Dutch Elm disease is caused by a yeast-like microscopic plant known as a fungus. The fungus itself is rarely visible in diseased trees without magnification. It grows in the water-conducting vessels of the sapwood and it's profuse growth and toxin combine to clog vessels and poison living tissues. The disease symptoms, following fungus infection, include the wilting of leaves, crooking of ends of twigs and death of branches. The disease is spread from tree to tree by the elm bark beetles. These beetles are not much larger than a flea, brown in color, and thousands of them might be found in a single tree.

The Dutch Elm disease has been known to wipe out the splendid old elm trees of an entire community. There is no saving a tree once it has become infested and all such trees must be cut down and burned in order to prevent the further spread of the disease.

To date Newton trees have not been seriously attacked by this disease although it is present here and its spread can be a serious menace to the beauty of Newton. Citizens, and home owners, who have reason to believe that elms are being infested with this disease should notify Street Commissioner Harold F. Young, under whose department the jurisdiction of trees and their preservation come.

Alertness on the part of every citizen to suspected growth of this tree menace will materially aid Commissioner Young and his department in eradicating the spread of it here in Newton.

Funds For Enlightenment

During this month the Newton League of Women Voters will conduct a fund drive for the purpose of securing revenue with which to carry out the work of this non-political organization.

During the past year, the Newton group has carried on extensive work to keep the electorate informed about the body politic. Non-partisan in nature, its work has been enlightening to many voters.

During the past year the Newton League welcomed more than four hundred citizens to a nonpartisan candidates' meeting where contestants for the office of Mayor, Aldermen and School Committee stated their views; it distributed free copies of "Know Your Newton" to new voters who registered at City Hall; it operated a mobile voter's information booth on a pre-election tour of Newton; it published voting records of representatives in Congress; it sent 12,000 fliers urging citizens to register and vote; it published a candidates' questionnaire which gave answers to vital civic problems; and in addition, carried on a campaign, through discussions, of citizen-education.

The Newton League has been particularly active in its work to keep the citizenship informed of its public responsibility and of candidates and issues. All this has entailed the expenditure of no small sum of money. Its decision to seek public support of its program for the coming year, merits an active response by all citizens of Newton. An enlightened electorate is an informed citizenship.

Political Highlights

It is no secret whatever that a good many Republicans now are somewhat disturbed over the present state of affairs in their party and the prospect of having either former Lieutenant Governor Arthur W. Coolidge or former Attorney General Clarence A. Barnes as their candidate for Governor.

After having had time to survey and study the situation, a number of thoughtful G.O.P. members are rebuilding their hopes that it may still be possible to persuade former Governor Robert F. Bradford to make the fight.

They are pointing out that when Bradford issued his statement last week, he did not entirely close the door to the possibility of his running. What he said was that he had no intention at that time of leaving his law practice to return to the political arena. That does not mean, they add, that he might not be induced to change his mind.

That's undoubtedly true, but if the top Republicans have any thought of trying to sell Bradford the idea of running, they had better start selling pretty soon because a large number of young G.O.P. members are in a mood to launch a grass roots campaign with a slate of candidates of their own.

The young Turks, as they are called by some of the party elders, probably couldn't succeed in nominating any of their choices. Certainly, it's most unlikely that they could unveil any candidate who could defeat either Barnes or Coolidge in a primary, but if they do put up a ticket and stage a drive for it, they would point up the present weakness of the Republican party in Massachusetts.

One of the things the Bay State G.O.P. seems to be suffering from at the present time is the lack of any real leadership.

That may sound strange in view of the claims over a period of years that a few party bigwigs were dictating policies and hand-picking candidates, but it appears to be the fact.

Senators Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr., and Leverett Saltonstall and House Minority Leader Joseph W. Martin, Jr., are completely engrossed in their duties at Washington. Saltonstall, in fact, made the statement that he could see no harm in a free-for-all fight for the Republican gubernatorial nomination.

National Committeeman Sinclair Weeks has been devoting much of his time and energy to raising funds to help underwrite Senator Robert A. Taft's campaign for reelection in Ohio, and he has funneled a substantial sum of New England money into the Buckeye State.

Republican State Committee Chairman Mason Sears has got exactly nowhere with the most of the suggestions he has advanced. There has not even been any evidence that he was successful even in getting anyone in the top party councils to listen to him.

That's about where matters stand at the moment. Coolidge has declared his candidacy. Barnes will shortly announce his. Several other hopeful and prospective candidates may also pile into the fight. A large group of dissatisfied young Republicans are considering the possibility of advancing their slate.

The main objection they advance to Barnes and Coolidge is that neither has the appeal for the independent voters who usually determine the outcome of a fight for the Governorship unless there is a pronounced political trend.

Barnes, of course, has been marked with an anti-labor tag. His friends insist that is unfair. Whether it is or not, the fact remains that the labor forces throughout the State would make an all-out drive against him if he is the Republican candidate for Governor.

The likeable Coolidge has a wide circle of friends who would go down the line for him in a primary. But he does not appear to have much appeal for the younger voters, and he hardly could win without them.

There is considerable difference of opinion as to how Barnes and Coolidge would fare in a knock-down primary battle.

Barnes is the more controversial figure of the two. But it is not considered that his position on labor issues would be any handicap in a Republican primary. It probably would win him votes for a great many of his party members share his views.

Coolidge's backers make much of the fact that he defeated Governor Paul A. Dever in the 1946 election of Lieutenant Governor. He did down Dever and ride into office on the crest of a surging Republican wave.

But those 1946 returns could be the object of interesting analysis. This is what they show:

Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr., defeated David I. Walsh by 329,536 votes.

Robert F. Bradford defeated Maurice J. Tobin by 148,409 votes.

Clarence A. Barnes defeated Francis E. Kelly by 151,934 votes.

Arthur W. Coolidge defeated Paul A. Dever by 6787 votes.

Less than two weeks now and the office kids will have the same old excuse as to why they can't come to work on a certain day. That day? Why when the umps call out "Batter Up."

Now that the budget has been passed, all you have to do is sit around and wait for the tax bill to come in.

Diesel engines on the B&A are bound to prove popular. They give a much smoother ride, or so it seems.

April showers, so they say, brings forth May flowers. And they also bring forth considerable dirt into the house. If you don't think so, ask Mom.

Over the past years there's been a lot of talking about off-street parking areas, but very little accomplished.

"Are Sin, Disease, and Death Real?" is the Lesson-Sermon subject for Sunday, April 9.

Golden Text: "In the way of righteousness is life; and in the pathway thereof there is no death" (Proverbs 12:28).

Sermon: Passages from the Bible (King James Version) include:

"This then is the message which we have heard of him, and declare unto you, that God is light, and in him is no darkness at all" (I John 1:5). Correlative passages from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy include:

"We are sometimes led to believe that darkness is as real as light; but Science affirms darkness to be only a mortal sense of the absence of light, at the coming of which darkness loses the appearance of reality. So sin and sorrow, disease and death, are the suppositional absence of Life, God, and flee as phantoms of error before truth and love" (p. 215).

Miss Thelma T. Kondazian Wed At Candlelight Service

Miss Thelma T. Kondazian, daughter of Mrs. Myron Kondazian of 322 Waverley avenue, Newton, became the bride of John G. Mosesian of 62 Warren street, Newburyport, at a candlelight service, in the First Armenian Evangelical Church, Cambridge, last Saturday.

The ceremony was performed by the Reverend Yearnt Mughdichian at 6:30 p.m. The church was tastefully decorated with flowers and candelabra.

The bride, who carried a bouquet of orchids and stephanotis, was given in marriage by her father. Her gown was of ivory slipper satin with sheer yoke encircling her shoulders. The bodice and sleeves were embroidered with seed pearls and the bouffant scooped skirt was attached to a cathedral-length train.

The bride's sister, Miss Zabelle Kondazian, of Newton, was her maid of honor. She carried a round muff of carnations. Her off-the-shoulder, taupe gown had a full ankle-length skirt. Her nylon tulle matching hat completed the costume.

Mr. Leo Samerjian, was the best man. He was assisted by Harry Mosesian, brother of the bridegroom and Harold Krikorian of Watertown. The organist was Mrs. Eva Langley. The soloist, Miss Beatrice Thoman, sang "The Lord's Prayer," "Because," and "I Love Thee," by Edward Greig.

The mother of the bride chose a silver lace dinner gown with regal Queen Anne collar, while the bridegroom's mother selected an aqua dinner gown with applied flowers.

The bride attended Dana Hall, Wellesley. Her husband, a graduate of Newburyport High School, attended Boston University.

After the reception at the Hotel Sheraton, Boston, the couple left for a wedding trip to Miami, Florida, and Bermuda. They will reside at 322 Waverley avenue, Newton, after their return April 15.

Burglar—

O'Neil had finished his mission with the elusive pair handcuffed and arrested.

In addition to Hebert, who is being held in $20,000 bail on four burglary counts, police have in custody, Ernest Skalberg, 22, of 151 Haviland street, Boston, alias Eric Ericson, and Rudolph Garnett, 24, of Richmond, Va., alias John Summers, who are held in New York City for return to Newton on burglary charges, and John J. Daignault, 54, an attendant at the Metropolitan State Hospital, 375 Trapelo road, Waltham, who is charged with being an accessory after the fact of burglary.

In the New York City Court Saturday, Skalberg and Garnett were held in $25,000 bail each on charges of violating the Sullivan Act against carrying weapons and the cases against them were continued to April 10.

In the Newton District Court Friday, Daignault, was arranged on charge of being an accessory after the fact of the burglary at the home of Frank A. Day, 170 Sargent street, Newton. He pleaded innocent. Judge W. Lloyd Allen set bail at $20,000 and continued the case until today (Thursday). The defendant was arrested by Capt. King and Inspector James E. Halloran Friday at the hospital and is charged with aiding the burglars in disposing of their loot.

Climaxing a two weeks search for the culprits, local police came upon their trail late Thursday by means of stolen articles pawned in Boston and Hebert was arrested near his home by Capt. King, Lt. O'Neil and Inspector Halloran and was booked at police headquarters on four counts of breaking and entering in the night time and larceny. The three officers then took the trail of Hebert's confederates and traced Skalberg and Garnett to Providence, R. I. Missing them, Capt. King and Inspector Halloran returned to Newton. While Hebert was pleading innocent in the Newton District Court, Lt. O'Neil and New York detectives Patrick Hart, Fred Runkler and Edward Heitman were waiting in the New York hotel for the two other suspects to show up.

When the pair came through the hotel door, O'Neil whispered to the New York detectives with him, and with O'Neil leading, they went into action. But the pair became suspicious of the five men advancing toward them.

Skalberg, according to police, drew a five-inch knife, Garnett reached for a revolver.

Garnett had his arms pinned behind him before he could get the gun out of its holster. Skalberg raised his knife but was thrown to the floor by the officers. In the skirmish Skalberg was stabbed in the head with his own knife, a souvenir taken from a German prisoner of war. Garnett was knocked unconscious.

While hotel patrons watched, Skalberg was handcuffed and taken to a hospital. Garnett was turned over to New York police on a charge of carrying a weapon without a permit.

Tracking of the two men by O'Neil took many sleepless hours. First he was led to Pawtucket, where the pair were believed to have stayed. They were not there, but O'Neil uncovered a clue in the room that led him

Newton

Barbara M. Shields, 17 Park street, Newton, a senior at the Boston University college of physical education for women, Sargent, is at the New York Rehabilitation Hospital in West Haverstraw, N. Y., where she is serving as a volunteer physical therapist for polio patients. Miss Shields and two classmates compose the third team of physical therapy students from Sargent who have worked in New York ward over-crowded by last summer's polio epidemic. As unpaid employees at the hospital, the co-eds are receiving classroom credit for their work.

Miss Deborah Cole, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Cole of 80 Hyde avenue, Newton, has returned home from Briarcliff Manor, New York, to spend the spring holidays. Miss Cole, a member of the senior class, has been elected to Plato, the committee which handles all dances. She will return to the College on Tuesday, April 11.

to suspect they were enroute to the New York hotel. He contacted Connecticut State Police and asked them to search New York bound buses. This proved futile. Grabbing the next train for New York, O'Neil hurried to the hotel. He found the pair had checked in, but had gone out. He contacted New York police and with them set the successful trap.

O'Neil was assigned to the case a week ago. His regular duty is the command of the night platoon in Newton.

Lt. O'Neil was met at the Boston Airport Friday night by Chief Philip Purcell and Capt. King. The recovered loot was brought to police headquarters where the owners were called to identify their property. The loot included a star sapphire, valued at $4800; two diamonds, worth about $5000 each; watches, old coins, old gold and ring settings.

According to the police the burglars sold magazines here and in neighboring communities in order to size up homes of their prospective victims and at times told their customers that they were trying to earn money to work their way through college. Entrance was usually gained by cutting the glass over the locks in windows and doors.

These arrests are the fourth major burglary cases to be cleared up by Newton police in recent months.

Super Market Sponsors Withdraw Petition For Change in Zoning Law

Plans for the erection of a super market at the corner of Walnut and Beacon streets, Newton Highlands, were suspended temporarily, at least, as a result of the sponsoring company planning the project withdrawing its petition seeking a change of zone to make possible the construction of a parking space, it was revealed Monday night at the meeting of the Board of Aldermen.

At the same meeting the Aldermen in a split vote, denied the petition of residents who sought to change the rest of the site from a business to a private residential zone.

Withdrawn by the petitioner was the petition of A. S. Kaufman for changing Lots 13 and 18, in the rear of 914 Walnut street, Ward 6, from private residence to business. The Planning Board had previously voted to all the petition on certain conditions.

Fire Department Praised for Work

Chief John E. Corcoran and members of the Fire Department were publicly thanked by residents of Newton whose place of business and home were damaged by fire recently. Following are the letters received by Chief Corcoran:

"Now that I am settled at my new office at 263 Washington street, Newton, and having gone over all my records and finding them undisturbed, I wish to express my appreciation for the kindness and assistance received from your men in making it pleasant and convenient for me to move my office furniture and equipment from the Beacon building, which was burned.

"The City of Newton should be very proud of its efficient Fire Department, as I observed that had it not been for the diligence and splendid work done by you and your men, the fire on March 4th at Newton Corner, might have been more serious.

"I would appreciate very much if you would extend my thanks to each and every man in your Fire Department."

John Finelli.

"To you and your finely trained corps of men, we express our sincere appreciation for the careful and efficient manner in which the fire was handled at our home, 8 Eldredge street, on Saturday, April 1, 1950."

The Magoley Family.

Gives Travel Talk on Trip Through Europe

At the regular meeting of the Newton Junior Community Club held Monday at the Rebecca Pomroy House, Miss Louise Duffy of the Metropolitan Travel Bureau gave a delightful talk on her recent travels throughout Europe. She stressed particularly her trip to Paris and the fashion world. She also discussed various tours throughout the West Coast and Mexico.

At the business meeting Mrs. James M. Weidner, president, gave a report on the Spring Conference held at Rockland, last Saturday, where she was the 12th District delegate.

The annual bridge and canasta party will be held at the YMCA Wednesday, April 12. Mrs. Frederick Myhrall, Ways and Means Chairman, reminded members to tell people to bring their own cards. Refreshments will be served under the direction of Mrs. Edward Hennikus.

Miss Janet Quigley, president of the Newtonville Jr. Woman's Club, accompanied by Mrs. Joseph Sevigny, advisor, and Miss Bernice Joyal, president of the Newton Centre Junior Woman's Club were among the guests.

Corsages were presented to the guests as well as to Miss Duffy. The pre-convention meeting at Swampscott will take place Sunday, May 14, with a meeting at 3 o'clock, followed by a formal dinner.

The schedule for the General Federation Women's Clubs Convention to be held in Boston May 28 to June 3, was also given. The headquarters will be in the Surrey Room of the Hotel Touraine. Several out-of-staters will be among those present and the juniors will be hostesses for the delegates.

Refreshments were served by Miss Bernice Carr, and Mrs. Elizabeth Dyer. The table decorations carried out the spring motif with a centerpiece of snapdragons.

The next regular visiting Sunday at the New England Peabody Home for Crippled Children will be April 16. All the members were urged to attend.

The last meeting of the year will be the Annual Banquet which will be held at the Hotel Beaconsfield, Monday, May 1.

On the "Books for Betty" project, 41 books to be sent overseas to the George Washington Memorial Library at Stuttgart, Germany were collected. The president extended her thanks to the club for their cooperation in this project.

Letters were read by Mrs. William H. Haines, corresponding secretary. One of particular interest was from Dee Paladina, a former member, who is now at St. Moritz, Switzerland. First Congregation Meeting Of New Reformed Jewish Temple Planned April 17

The first congregational meeting of the new reformed Jewish Temple in Newton has been scheduled for Monday evening, April 17. It was announced this week by Donald Daniels, temporary chairman, that well over one hundred families have already affiliated with the Temple and many more have indicated they will become members with in the next few days.

In response to an invitation to consider plans for the formation of Newton's first reformed Jewish congregation, more than four hundred persons attended a most enthusiastic meeting the evening of March 27, in the Normandie Room at Norumbega Park. Two Named to Fill Vacancies on Vets Advisory Board

Mayor Theodore R. Lockwood has announced the appointment of two World War II veterans to the Veterans' Advisory Board, to fill the vacancies caused by the resignations of William Haliday and Arthur T. Henderson. Jacob Lasoff of 245 Wiswall road, Oak Hill, and Robert Womboldt of 13 Churchill street, Newton, have been appointed to fill the vacancies.

The Veterans' Advisory Board was created after World War II under State law to assist the Newton Veterans' Services Department with its problems. Robert Tennant is the chairman and other members are John Wheelock, Rev. Francis X. Bransfield, Frank DiGregorio, Pierce W. Gaddis and James P. Gallagher.

Mr. Lasoff served as a major in the Army Engineers and now holds the rating of major in the Army reserves. He is advertising manager of the Beacon Plastics Company in Newton and is a member of the Newton Post, American Legion.

Mr. Womboldt who served in the Medical Corps as a staff sergeant, is a member of Newton Post, American Legion, and of the executive board of the Chaplain Farrell Chapter, D.A.V. Red Cross Chapter Fund Drive Now 98.8 Percent of Goal

In announcing the achievement of 98.8% of the goal of the Newton Red Cross Chapter in its 1950 Fund Campaign, Douglass B. Francis, Fund Chairman, declares that "we have every confidence that the 'overtime period' will put us over the top. Already seven sections—Chestnut Hill, Newton, Newton Highlands, Newton Lower Falls, Newton Upper Falls, Oak Hill and Waban—have exceeded their quotas as well as the Stores and Bank Divisions."

He emphasized that every cent of Newton's quota is needed, since it is based on the minimum budget required to carry on the Chapter's activities at their present level of efficiency. If by some chance a solicitor has not reached you, he urges, please mail your contribution to Chapter headquarters, 21 Foster street, Newtonville or telephone and a special solicitor will call for your contribution.

To Ask Funds for School Plans in Oak Hill District

An appropriation of $7100 for architectural services for the proposed erection of an elementary school on Brookline street in the Oak Hill section will be made by Mayor Lockwood at the meeting of the Board of Aldermen Monday night.

If approved this will be the third school to be erected in the Oak Hill section of the city. The Memorial School in the veterans housing development is now under construction while the first Oak Hill school, constructed some years ago, is located on Wheeler road.

In addition, the school program includes a new school, now under construction in Auburndale to replace the old Williams School, as well as additions to the Franklin School in West Newton and the Ward School in Newton Centre.

Basin Parkway Name Changed to Nonantum Road

At the request of the Metropolitan District Commission, the name of Charles River Basin parkway has been changed to Nonantum road, according to an announcement by City Engineer Ashley Q. Robinson.

C. W. Kammeier to Be Guest Speaker At Annual Meeting of Newton Tuberculosis and Health Ass'n

C. W. Kammeier, executive director of the Massachusetts Tuberculosis and Health League, will be the guest speaker next week at the annual meeting of the Newton Tuberculosis and Health Association.

Directors, members, Christmas seal volunteers, and others interested in tuberculosis control work will meet at 8:30 p. m. next Tuesday, in the Young People's Parlor, the Second Church, Chestnut street, West Newton, to hear Mr. Kammeier discuss "The Role of the Tuberculosis Association in the Community."

A tea has been planned by a committee including Mrs. Meyer Armet, Mrs. Donald E. Bowen, Miss Emily M. Hickey, and Mrs. William W. B. Sutton.

The program includes election of officers and directors, and reports of the Association's health education, rehabilitation, case-finding, and Christmas seal sale activities for the past year.

Dr. Donald E. Bowen, president of the Newton Tuberculosis and Health Association, and Mr. John Fielding, editor of the Newton Graphic, addressed Newton High School's class in Journalism at a party Wednesday.

Dr. Bowen awarded a certificate of honor to the school newspaper, The Newtonite, in recognition of an article on tuberculosis written by Anne Maziek, and published in the school paper last fall.

Mr. Fielding talked to the class about the problems and services of a community newspaper.

Guests invited to the party were Harold M. Gores, superintendent of schools; Raymond A. Green, principal, Newton High School; Floyd Rinker, head of the department in English; Ruth Brooks, secretary, Newton Tuberculosis and Health Association; Helen Breivogel, head of girls' physical education; Virginia Altieri, business adviser of The Newtonite; and Bruno Visco, associate pupil business manager.

Anne Maziek's award-winning article is as follows:

Tuberculosis, a communicable disease, which kills nearly 50,000 Americans a year, can be completely wiped out. This dread disease kills more young people between the ages of 15 and 34 years of age than any other malady, and it is estimated that about 500,000 people in this country have active tuberculosis.

The Newton Tuberculosis and Health Association is working to eradicate tuberculosis completely from our city, but this

Plans Considered For Erection Of Memorial

At a meeting of the Veterans' Service Advisory Board held in the City Hall last week, plans were considered for the erection of a memorial to the Newton residents who are listed as missing in action in the last war. $1500 has already been appropriated for the contemplated project.

Eight sketches were examined at the meeting. The proposed monument, if plans finally go through, would be erected in the World War II section of the Soldiers' lot in the Newton Cemetery.

At the same time details of the proposed new ordinance governing burials in the Soldiers' Lot were listed by city officials. Under the new ordinance, burials in the Soldiers' Lot provide that permits for a burial be issued only for those who served during the two World Wars. World War I dates listed are between April 6, 1917 to November 11, 1918 and those of World War II from September 10, 1940 to December 31, 1946.

The annual meeting of the Community Council in April is to be devoted to a discussion of the heart program.

The examination itself is to be a very simple one. It takes about ten minutes. A physician listens to the heart sounds, and a nurse or secretary records blood pressure, height, weight, and the answers to a few questions. The purpose is to discover cases of heart disease which are at present unknown. An individual alcan be done only with the co-operation of every adult residing in Newton. When a case of tuberculosis is discovered, it is the civic duty of the individual to accept the expert care and treatment offered him by a sanatorium.

A victim of tuberculosis discovered in Newton would be treated at the Middlesex County Sanatorium in Waltham, supported by the health and welfare department. People are never compelled to go to a sanatorium, but actually it is the only place where they can have the complete physical and mental rest which is essential to their recovery. There they are free from the burdens and worries of their occupations and home lives, and they are in a position where they cannot spread the germ to others.

As a patient starts to regain his health, he develops many fears and problems concerning his future. How will he fit into his family picture? What will be the attitude of friends and neighbors toward him? Will there be anyone who will understand what his illness has meant to him? For what kind of work will he be fitted?

When a patient is well enough to be concerned with these matters, a rehabilitation worker at the sanatorium will help him solve these important problems. Through aptitude and interest tests, the worker may determine the type of work most suitable for the patient. The Division of Vocational Rehabilitation under the State Department of Education helps him to learn an occupation by way of studies that can be carried on while he is recuperating, and when he comes out of the sanatorium, this group helps him find work. There is a five-year follow-up to see that he is adapting himself to home and work and avoiding situations that would impair his health and perhaps cause a relapse.

Chest x-ray is the only means of discovering early tuberculosis because the disease has no symptoms until it has reached its advanced stages. The disease can be checked in the course of one generation if every adult has an annual chest x-ray. Until now, chest x-rays in Newton have been available only to large organized groups, but within the next three years, the Tuberculosis Association hopes to have a city-wide chest x-ray project in operation. X-rays will be given only to adults, but when cases are found, the children in the family will also be x-rayed. So far, x-rays have been available for employees of the Newton schools, police, and fire departments, and the employees of every factory with over 75 workers.

Various other activities have been carried on for the prevention of tuberculosis. The Newton Tuberculosis and Health Association has spread information on the subject through movies, books, pamphlets, exhibits, lectures and newspaper releases. The association is supported completely by the sale of Christmas seals.

Tuberculosis can strike anyone at any time. A person may spread the germ when he is not even aware of being afflicted with it, because it affects people in many ways. One may be entirely unconscious of the fact that he carries the disease. It is possible for tuberculosis to be completely wiped out in one generation, but only through the cooperation of everyone.

Junior-High group met Mr. Fisher at a Sunday evening meeting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. David Hume, Newton Lower Falls. Meanwhile Mrs. Fisher returned to Anniston, Alabama, to fulfill her duties as organist at the Episcopal church there the following Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. Fisher have made their home in Alabama for the last year while he has been temporarily engaged in the insurance business.

Mr. Fisher comes to the West Newton ministry with an outstanding record. For three years, 1943-46, while on leave of absence from his church in Framingham, he served as a U. S. Army chaplain in the European theatre. Born in Beaver Falls, N. Y., in 1907, he was graduated in 1929 with his B.A. degree from Ohio Wesleyan University. He received his S.T.B. from Boston University School of Theology in 1932 and his S.T.M. from Harvard University Divinity School in 1947. Son of a Methodist minister, he was ordained to the Unitarian ministry in 1933. His pastorates include Unitarian churches in Groton, Mass., 1932-35; Oklahoma City, Okla., 1935-38; and the First Unitarian Church in Framingham, Mass., from 1939-49, including his three years' leave of absence as an army chaplain.

In 1933 Mr. Fisher married Miss Dorothy Stallworth, herself a graduate of Alabama College and of the New England Conservatory of Music. An accomplished pianist and organist, Mrs. Fisher has been a professional accompanist. Mr. and Mrs. Fisher have two sons, ten and three years old.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Fisher have been active in civic and denominational affairs. While in Framingham, Mr. Fisher served as committee chairman of the Framingham Council of Churches and was a member of the Framingham Ministerial Association. He was also a member of Kiwanis, a trustee of the Frederick M. Perry Estate for Framingham Children, and a member of the Community Choral Society and the Sudbury River Tennis Club. As an active minister in the Unitarian movement, Mr. Fisher was secretary-treasurer of the South West Conference in 1937-38, and secretary-treasurer of the South Middlesex Conference in 1939. He has also served as a member of the Advisory Council for the Division of Promotion and Publications of the American Unitarian Association.

When Mr. Fisher assumes the ministry of the West Newton Unitarian Church, he will move into an active church of approximately 300 members with a rapidly growing church school. The First Unitarian Society in Newton was founded in 1848, with Horace Mann as one of the ten original petitioners. The present church edifice, dedicated in 1906, is an imposing stone structure of Gothic architecture commanding West Newton square. The names of many prominent citizens, past and present, appear on the membership rolls of the Society, which has always played a significant part in community and denominational activities. Willard B. Weissblatt of Waban is chairman of the board of trustees.

Newton H.S. Takes Opener, Defeating Medford 6 to 4

The opening day of baseball activities at Newton High was slightly frigid to some 300-odd fans, but Coach Howie Ferguson's boys got off to a hot 2-0 lead in the first inning and stayed in front the rest of the way, defeating Medford High 6-4 Monday afternoon at the high school field.

The Orangemen collected only six hits as against 11 for the visitors, but were able to capitalize on numerous errors committed by Medford.

Approaching darkness and cold weather caused the game to be called after 7½ innings.

In the first on one away, second baseman and co-captain Rick Rycroft made first on a fumbled grounder, then moved to second when right fielder Fred Dauten was hit by a pitch. Bob Keyho was put out, but the next batter, Barkey Boole came through with a hit that sent in two Newton runs.

The third baseman topped a weak roller between third and the mound. Medford pitcher Bill Seitz threw wildly to first, the ball bouncing away from Dick Topper, and Rycroft came around to score the first tally. Dauten then took off for the plate, but Topper's try was in the dirt, and the locals had two to the good.

Coach Ferguson used three hurlers for the opening tilt, Gibson Studley, who started and was awarded the win, Bobby Schlosberg, and John Thomas, all proving quite capable mounds-men, despite the 11 singles.

Newton added another tally in the third inning when left fielder Pete Santucci beat out an infield hit, then stole second. Rycroft lashed a clean grounder through the middle, and Santucci raced to the plate, sliding under the tag for the Orange's third run. Newton sacrificed for this tally when Rycroft, missing first base as he rounded the bag heading for second, was tagged out by Medford's first sacker.

Medford's hitting power was due to offer some contention, and the visitors produced in the fourth and fifth innings by sending across two tallies. The fourth also featured a balk by pitcher Schlosberg, thus setting the stage for their first run, Jim Vangel having already reached on a single. A fielder's choice brought in the second, and the fifth Medford added another after two men were out. A walk and two singles, by Fred Greenleaf and Jim Vangel, brought in their second.

Newton extended their lead in the last of the fifth when Dauten reached on a single, Keyho made first on a close race, and Boole lobbed one to the shortstop, whose throw to first pulled Topper off the bag. Dauten scored on this play, and was followed by Keyho, who moved up on the attempt to get Boole.

Two hits and an error accounted for one more for Medford in the seventh. Bill Seitz, the starting Medford hurler, was allowed by officials to go in at first base in the game, and collected a single. Boole erred on a grounder by Dan Molinari, and Greenleaf lined one to right, making it 5-3 Newton.

The locals sewed it up in their half of the seventh. Walks to catcher Joe Landry and Boole and an error on Fred Keith's roller loaded the bases. Al Phinney bounced one to Bill Asaro, the ball taking a bad hop, and Newton's final run scored. Medford's last tally came on a walk and two singles, the game then being called because of darkness and cold weather.

At the regular quarterly meeting of the Trustees of the Newton Savings Bank, held last week, Joseph Earl Perry, President of the Bank, presented some interesting figures in connection with his quarterly report. He commented on the fact that the total of all saving accounts was now over $32,430,000 and that they had increased for the year $1,222,551. Of this amount 3,583 are with school savers who have saved to date $27,545. He reported that during the last three months the bank had taken a total of 579 mortgages amounting to over two and three-quarters millions of dollars. Personal loans made increased 38 per cent in the last year and savings bank life insurance issued during the year increased 7.7 per cent in number and 8.8 per cent in amount. The bank now has in force life insurance amounting to $17,185,572 of which over a million and a half is in group insurance.

Speaks on Modern Architecture to High School Class

Orlando Celuci, a student of architecture at Harvard and a pupil of the modern architect Frank Lloyd Wright, recently spoke to several classes in English and design at Newton High School concerning modern architecture.

Mr. Celuci illustrated his talks with slides of various types of architecture and homes in different settings. He believes that although architecture should be purely functional, at the same time it may be very beautiful. He stated that just as old-time architects took into consideration the materials available when designing buildings, the buildings of today should be planned to use our modern materials and should not try to imitate old fashioned types of structures.

Mr. Celuci emphasized the use of glass and said that homes should be designed to suit their surroundings and the needs of the families occupying them.

He said that if a family wished a tree to grow through the middle of the house he would design it that way. However, if they wished a house which required unnecessary design or structure, he would refuse them. Mr. Celuci also believes that an architect should plan a house to use the materials found in the locality in which it is built.

Junior College to Hold Open House

Newton Junior College will hold an open house for its students and their guests this Thursday evening, it was announced by Frank Fay, chairman of the Student Council. This second open house is held in response to the demand by students as a result of a similar successful event held a few weeks ago.

A record hop is to be held in the social room while a bridge tournament is going on in the smoking room. It is anticipated that faculty members will again be challenged to compete with student bridge enthusiasts.

For students interested in current social problems, a give-and-take discussion is to be held in the college library under the leadership of Richard Malton. The topic for discussion concerns the development of proper human relations as a preparation for family life. Dr. Edward Landy, director of counseling services for the Newton public schools, will be present as a specialist who has done much reading and research in the psychological implications of the topic. Several faculty members and students have planned to participate in this discussion.

Refreshments will be served in the social rooms during the evening. The open house is under the direction of the Student Council of the college, including Frank Fay, Addison Lesser, Chris Boughner, Todd Brady, Frederick Doucette, Francine Daner, Bernice Lubets, Alton LeBeau, and John Chase.

Enough Serum on Hand for Needs of Measles Patients

Nearly one million vials of immune serum globulin, blood derivative for preventing or modifying measles, have been distributed by the American Red Cross within the past 21 months to state health departments across the country according to a special communication received this week from General George C. Marshall, American National Red Cross President by Mr. Maxwell P. Gaddis, Chairman of the Newton Chapter.

General Marshall's report on this phase of the National Blood Program was released to the people of the nation at this time, Mr. Gaddis said, because the "measles season" is now approaching its peak.

"If your child has measles or has been exposed to measles, all your doctor has to do is to request this serum from the nearest state health department," the chapter chairman said. He stated that there is no cause for alarm by parents at this time because there is enough immune serum globulin on hand now to meet the anticipated needs of measles patients this year.

Mr. Gaddis revealed that General Marshall's communication stated that immune serum globulin was processed from wartime surplus blood plasma and distributed by the Red Cross without cost to all state health departments.

Her subject was "Indian Trails and Early Roads of the United States."

Her talk was very interesting, presenting as it did, the difference between travel today, and that of the early colonists.

A social hour followed her talk with refreshments served, Mrs. Walter C. Whitney and Mrs. Charles E. Morrow serving at the tea table. A food and miscellaneous sale benefited the Chapter.

The "Triumphant Hour"

Those who were fortunate enough to view television's "Triumphant Hour" over the networks Easter Sunday had the rare privilege of witnessing the dramatization of the resurrection of Christ in a most stirring and solemn enactment of that glorious event. It was, without doubt, the most inspiring observance of Easter ever presented over the air.

In a modern church setting, audiences were treated to a spectacle of the solemn recitation of "The Rosary." Interspersed with the recitation, the story of the Resurrection, the Ascension and the descent of the Holy Ghost upon the apostles was enacted which took those who viewed the production completely away from this modern age and left implanted on the mind the teachings, the suffering and the sacrifice of Him who died for us.

In this world of uncertainty, disregard for the moral precepts of life and the greed of leaders and nations, the presentation of the life of our Saviour taught, and vividly portrayed, the kindness, the understanding and the self-sacrifices of Christ, and it left an indelible print on the mind which was both inspiring and enduring.

The production was outstanding and similar portrayals, we hope, will be forthcoming for such as this one, surely does much to evaluate one's self.

What Are Their Prospects?

Soon now, high schools and colleges will be graduating thousands of students who have completed their course of education.

As is true every year, these students or at least a vast majority of them, will be seeking their start in the business world. What is their future today?

Certainly the present outlook is none too good yet it is not hopeless. These graduates will find an employment market which is going to be selective. That is, employers are going to choose their future employees with care and at their own terms. The situation today is one where only the best, the most sincere and the most qualified are going to be selected. Yet qualification without ambition will not do. Gone, at least temporarily, are the days when a graduate can choose and dictate.

Yet for those who are sincere, for those who have ambitions, for those who honestly want a position and are willing to give their best, the field of employment is not gone. Rather it is an open one where aptitude and a willingness to succeed, are prerequisites to success.

Graduates today will find the field of employment much more difficult than was true some years ago. It is a competitive field and one which will demand the best. The days of the shirker, the know-it-all and the irresponsible are gone in the business world. Only the ablest will survive. That is the challenge.

It Performs a Dual Service

The 1950 Cancer Crusade performs a dual service. It gives the American public an opportunity to join through generous giving, in the research and educational war against the disease that will kill some 8,500 persons in Massachusetts this year. And it serves to reemphasize the life-or-death message that the Cancer Society strives unceasingly to drive home to the public!

Early cancer is one of the most curable of serious diseases.

Advanced cancer, often hopeless, is always extremely difficult to treat successfully.

During this month, officially designated by Congress as Cancer Control Month, volunteers of the Massachusetts Division of the Cancer Society are seeking to raise the state goal of $530,166. More than that, research grants to some of the great medical and scientific institutions here that are relentlessly trying to crack cancer's secret, may result.

That you will be generous should go without saying.

Never mind the weather. Spring is "officially" here next week—the baseball season starts.

Big men never feel big; small men never feel small.

There is only one type of man who is smarter than a woman—a bachelor.

It was, we believe, Anthony Trollope who wrote: "Those who offend us are generally punished for the offense they give; but we so frequently miss the satisfaction of knowing that we are avenged!"

Maybe we're old fashioned but we can't just cotton to the idea that parking the baby in a theatre lobby while going to the movie show inside, is the practical, modern way of minding baby.

Current Comments

● ● ● This is a do-or-die year for Massachusetts Republicans.

That trite phrase may be overworked for political elections, but the party in power on Beacon Hill next year will be able to control the revamping of the State's congressional districts.

If the Democrats succeed in holding control of the Governorship and maintaining the upper hand in the two branches of the Legislature next November, you may be sure that a majority of the Bay State Congressmen elected in 1952 will be Democrats.

The one big reason that a majority of the Congressmen elected, even in a Democratic landslide such as occurred in 1948, have been Republicans, is that the lines of the congressional districts have been carefully drawn by G.O.P. politicians.

The Republicans have been guilty of gerrymandering back through the years to maintain their majorities not only in the State's congressional delegation but in both branches of the Legislature as well.

They would use up terrific numbers of Democratic votes by concentrating them into districts such as those represented by John W. McCormack, John F. Kennedy and Thomas J. Lane, and in most of the other districts they would provide a safe and comfortable G.O.P. margin without wasting too many G.O.P. votes.

The same system was followed is working out the Legislative districts so that the Democrats never won a majority in the House of Representatives until the 1948 election.

Down through the years the Democrats have screamed in hurt and anguish 'protest', but the Republicans went about their business in workmanlike fashion, fashioning what they considered impregnable bulwarks to protect their legislative and congressional control.

Now the Democrats are sitting back in anticipation of some gerrymandering of their own if they are still in control in 1951 when the time comes to revise and revamp the congressional districts.

They believe they can set the stage for the defeat of some of the present Republican Congressmen, and the chances are that they could by dropping G.O.P. strongholds from certain districts and adding some Democratic sectors in their places.

They probably could spell defeat for Congressman Christian A. Herter, Angier L. Goodwin and John W. Heseltine by making only comparatively small changes in their districts.

Herter and Heseltine are liberal Republicans well entrenched in their respective districts, but both could be overturned if a Republican community was sliced from each district and a Democratic one substituted in its place, for the margin of political superiority normally is rather small.

The Democratic politicians suspect they could even make some trouble for Congressman Joseph W. Martin, Jr., and Richard B. Wigglesworth and Congresswoman Edith Nourse Rogers if they have the power to design the new congressional districts.

For that reason you're likely to see the Republican Congressmen campaigning energetically throughout the State next autumn not only for themselves but for the other members of the G.O.P. slate. Ordinarily most of the Congressmen attend strictly to their own knitting and don't pay too much attention to other fights, but they won't be able to afford to do that this year with their own political futures hanging in the balance.

If a stalemate develops on Beacon Hill and neither party is able to push through a bill for the revision of the congressional districts, it's conceivable that all the Massachusetts Congressmen might be elected from the State at large in 1952 without any Congressional districts at all.

Some of the Democratic strategists don't think that would be the worst thing that could happen from their standpoint. They point out that there would be an excellent chance that they could elect more Democratic Congressmen than they do now if all the candidates for Congress were running in the State as a whole.

It's an odd thing, but some of the Republican leaders haven't yet really awakened to the fact that their control of both the Massachusetts delegation in Congress and the State Legislature may be threatened for years to come if they lose the next State election and that the tactics they employed for years may be brought into play against them.

So far there has been no real attempt to produce the strongest slate the G.O.P. could put up. There have been scattered statements to the effect that, "We ought to get together and do something boys." But so far there has been little getting together and even less doing anything.

There have been rumbles of dissatisfaction from the younger Republicans over the prospect of having either former Lieutenant Governor Arthur W. Coolidge or former Attorney General Clarence A. Barnes as the G.O.P. candidate for Governor, and some of the sons and daughters of the G.O.P. don't like the idea of having National Committeeman Sinclair Weeks concentrating his effort and energy on raising funds in Massachusetts to help out Senator Robert A. Taft in Ohio.

The political chips will be down in the election next November, and the stakes will be high for the party that can pick them up.

Next Wednesday is one of those holidays so common to these parts. For some it will be a holiday, for others it will not be, while still others will have a half day off. So, take your choice.

"Doctrine of Atonement" is the Lesson-Sermon subject for Sunday, April 16.

Golden Text: "If any man sin, we have an advocate with the Father, Jesus Christ the righteous" (1 John 2:1).

Sermon: Passages from the Bible (King James Version) include:

"Wherefore seeing we also are compassed about with so great a cloud of witnesses, let us lay aside every weight, and the sin which doth so easily beset us, and let us run with patience the race that is set before us" (Hebrews 12:1). Correlative passages from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy include:

"Wisdom and Love may require many sacrifices of self to save us from sin. One sacrifice, however great, is insufficient to pay the debt of sin. The atonement requires constant self-immolation on the sinner's part" (p. 23).

Postmasters Have All The Rights Of Civil Service

Harry B. Mitchell, Chairman of the United States Civil Service Commission, today issued the following statement:

A large part of the American public fails to realize that postmasters are civil service officials, appointed under the civil service system, and entitled to all the rights and privileges of the law.

Postmasters were brought under the Federal civil service system in 1936. Every postmaster not only has to qualify for appointment through an examination given by the United States Civil Service Commission, but in the examination, he must be among the top 3 eligibles. After appointment, like other Federal workers, the postmaster serves without limitation on his term, subject to the same competent handling of his office, as is required of all other civil service personnel.

The country benefited when postmasters were placed under the competitive civil service. We should remember that not only post office clerks, carriers, and supervisors, but postmasters themselves are civil service workers appointed through competitive examinations. Postmasters are also under the Retirement Act.

Today, a postmaster is a full-time representative of the Federal Government rendering particularly important service to his community. The postmaster and his employees are the most important daily contact a citizen has with his government.

They bring the American system of Government close to the homes of the American people. I am glad to know that the National Association of Postmasters is launching a campaign to inform the American public of the true position of postmasters in the civil service system. The Civil Service Commission hopes that this campaign will be eminently successful.

The United States Civil Service Commission is particularly gratified at the manner in which postmasters are performing their duties.

Postmasters are a vital part of our great civil service system.

The excellent cooperation which you have given the Bureau of Census in connection with the fourthcoming Decennial Census has been brought to my attention by Mr. Edward L. Hopkins, our District Supervisor at the Army Base, Boston, Massachusetts. The success, or lack of it, which this endeavor wins is due in large part to the manner in which the program is presented to the public. Your welcome assistance, I assure you, is appreciated both by Mr. Hopkins and by myself. I wish to thank you personally for your courteous handling of our releases and stories.

No Finer List of Names
On Earth!

If you had in your hand a list of all the people in the world who own and ride in Cadillac cars, we think you'd agree that you could search in vain for another list of equal size—and greater distinction.

Cadillac is the great common meeting ground for the world's distinguished people. Wherever the car is available, it has become almost the automatic companion for outstanding personal achievement.

And yet, such is the magic of Cadillac's manufacturing ingenuity, that this internationally distinguished car is available at a price which makes it a great practical value.

The lowest-priced Cadillac model—the lovely "Sixty-One"—actually costs less than certain models of numerous other makes of cars.

The great Cadillac engine is so economical to operate that gasoline mileage actually approaches that of the smallest, most economical cars. In a recent officially-supervised economy run, three Cadillac cars averaged better than twenty-two miles to the gallon for 751 miles!

And there is simply no practical limit to the car's endurance. It is merely a question of how long you wish to keep it and drive it. The full lifespan of a Cadillac has never been accurately measured.

In view of all this, isn't it the part of wisdom to add your own name to the list of those who own this distinguished car?

This is a wonderful year for moving up to Cadillac. The car has never been so beautiful, so luxurious—so utterly thrilling to ride in and drive. It is an everlasting satisfaction to utilize and possess.

Better come in and talk it over. We'd be most happy to see you—any time. But please bear in mind that every day you delay will cost you its price in pleasure and satisfaction. Why not come in today?

The bride who was given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white Skinner satin, with yoke of nylon marquisette, bordered with rose point lace. The long train was also bordered with rose point lace. Her veil was a family heirloom. She carried an old fashioned bouquet with contrasting ribbon streamers.

The bridesmaids were Jeanette Buell, Newtonville, Marie O'Connell, West Newton and Mrs. Robert J. Wilson, of Middlebury, Vermont, who wore gowns of frosted white nylon over Nile green taffeta and matching picture hats. Their bouquets were of old fashioned flowers with contrasting ribbon streamers.

The mother of the bride chose a gown of toast lace over beige taffeta and wore a corsage of spring flowers. The groom's mother wore a gown of rose crepe with a corsage of spring flowers.

Mr. Robert Buell of Long Island, New York, was the best man. The ushers were Robert J. Wilson of Middlebury, Vermont, Robert Sullivan of Newton, Frederick Ganley, of Auburndale and Everett Schwartz of Weston.

The bride and groom are both graduates of Newton High School. A reception was held at the Wellesley Country Club. After a wedding trip to Washington, D. C. Mr. and Mrs. Buell will reside on Eddy street, Newtonville.

Easter Prayer Cited by Senate

A touching prayer, appropriate to the Easter season, was recently printed in the Journal of the Senate, Senator Leslie B. Cutler informed this week.

The Senate opens daily with a prayer by the Chaplain, Monsignor Francis A. Burke, who was appointed last year by 1949 President Chester A. Dolan, and reappointed by 1950 Senate President Harris Richardson.

"The chaplain's prayers are so beautiful and inspiring that often a member asks to have them recorded. This particular prayer was so moving that I felt it should be shared with the people of my district," Mrs. Cutler stated.

O God forgive
That now I live
As if I might, sometime, return
To bless the weary ones that yearn

For help and comfort every day,
For there be such along the way.

O God, forgive that I have seen
The beauty only, have not been
Awake to sorrow such as this;
That I have drunk the cup of bliss

Remembering not that those
There be
Who drink the dregs of misery.

I love the beauty of the scene,
Would roam again o'er fields so green;
But since I may not, let me
Spend
My strength for others to the end.

For those who tread on rock
And stone,
And bear their burdens all alone,
Who loiter not in leafy bowers,
Nor hear the birds nor pluck
The flowers,

A larger kindness give to me,
A deeper love and sympathy;
Then, O, one day
May someone say—

Remembering a lessened pain—
"Would he could pass this way again."

You'll have the oil changed—the car lubricated—the spark plugs cleaned—of course. But, before you call that Spring Tune-Up, think of what your car has been through this past winter.

It is smart to have your service man give your car a complete inspection. Ask him about such things as the Radiator—the Oil

Filter—the care of Finish—the Brakes and the Brake Fluid system—Windshield Wipers and Front Wheel Bearings.

It costs little to check! It costs less to replace and repair in time—before you have trouble on the road. And there's a lot of peace of mind and satisfaction in knowing your car has been well serviced.

Safety Training Should Be Part Of Training

"The way your child walks, runs, and plays," Chief Philip Purcell of the Newton Police Department stated today in connection with April's program of traffic safety education, "may well determine his future—or lack of it."

Chief Purcell pointed out that the National Safety Council lists inadequate safety training on the part of parents as an indirect cause for many of the annual traffic deaths among children under 15 years of age. "National Safety Council figures show about a third of the children between five and 15 years old killed in traffic accidents each year were playing in the street at the time," he said. "About one-sixth of them ran or walked from behind cars and a fourth of them were struck while crossing between intersections. In far too many of these cases the child had never been taught that what he was doing was dangerous."

"Our children must know how to walk and play safely. Parents are urged to impress the following rules on their children:

1. Remember—the streets are for cars—not scooters, tricycles, or play.
2. Cross the street only at the corner, preferably at one with an automatic signal or traffic officer. Look both ways, then for turning traffic, and cross only when the way is clear.
3. Never forget that bicycles are subject to the same rules and regulations governing automobiles, including the careful observance of signs and signals.

"With about 2300 children between the ages of five and 15, alone, being killed in traffic accidents each year," the Chief said, "it's time we face the facts. We depend upon the parents to help in every way."

NEWTON COUPLE HONORED—Mr. and Mrs. Herman Gilman of Park Avenue, Newton, were guests of honor at the annual membership meeting of the Combined Jewish Appeal of Greater Boston of which Mr. Gilman served as president for the past two years. They were presented a set of candelabra by Irving Usen of Newton on behalf of a group of friends "in appreciation of your devotion to philanthropic causes." Mr. and Mrs. Gilman left for an extended automobile tour of the West Coast following last week's meeting.

Combined Jewish Appeal Volunteers to Visit All Contributors Here Sunday

Combined Jewish Appeal volunteers will visit every contributor in Newton on "C" Day (Cash Collection Day) Sunday to secure payment on pledges.

Newton leaders who have been planning and organizing the "C" Day effort are Etta Louis Goldmann; Mrs. Daniel Mordecai; Mrs. David Stearns; Eric Marmorek and Paul Salter, who strongly urge all Newton Combined Jewish Appeal contributors to stay home on Sunday morning and prepare to welcome their visitors with cash payment.

The Newton "C" Day effort is part of the greatest one-day collection drive in Combined Jewish Appeal history. Sunday morning, hundreds of workers in every Metropolitan Boston community will make an intensive house-to-house canvas to collect cash for the 197 local, national and overseas agencies supported by the Combined Jewish Appeal. The "C" Day activity is the high spot in the traditional Combined Jewish Appeal April Pledge Redemption Month.

Chief beneficiaries of the Combined Jewish Appeal are the 22 health, welfare and recreation agencies of the Associated Jewish Philanthropies, and the United Jewish Appeal, which supports relief programs for European DP's, gives help to new arrivals in this country, and contributes to the upbuilding and development of Israel.

Fourth Annual Spring Concert To Be Given May 12

The Community Chorus of the Newtons will present its fourth annual Spring Concert at the Newton High School auditorium Friday, May 12, at 8:15 p.m. The Community Chorus is being conducted this year by James H. Remley, supervisor of music in the Newton public schools. Mr. Remley has planned a most interesting program which should be of interest to all who enjoy good choral music.

One feature of the concert will be the first presentation in this part of the country of "Lincoln Lyrics," the music of which was composed by the contemporary Canadian composer, George Frederick McKay. This is setting to music of eight poems by Edwin Markham on the life of Abraham Lincoln. The music is modern in style and is written in many contrasting moods.

Membership in the Community Chorus is still open to men and women who enjoy singing and having an active part in the presentation of good choral music. Rehearsals are held every Tuesday evening at the Frank A. Day Junior High School, Newtonville (Crafts st. entrance) at 8 o'clock.

Group to Broadcast Over WCRB Apr. 29

A group of children from the All Newton Music School will be heard on Station WCRB, April 29 at 9:30 a. m., it was learned at a meeting of the Mother's Auxiliary of the All Newton Music School, Miss Voltairine Block, who conducts the "Children's Song Bag of Music" is well known in the radio world, and also devotes many hours to the entertainment of young patients in the children's wards of Boston hospitals.

Mrs. Casper Swaney, Chairman of the Mother's Auxiliary, announced that the Pop Concert was a financial success, and that again this year the mortgage on the building will be reduced. Gratitude to the mothers who spent many hours helping with the plans for the Concert was expressed by Mrs. B. Alden Thresher, President of the Board of Trustees, and Mrs. Ralph Hall, General Chairman in charge of the Pop Concert.

Mrs. William Worth told the mothers that the date May 31, has been set for the Annual Spring Concert, which gives friends and parents of the students at the Music school a pleasant opportunity to hear what they have accomplished during the year. This event is by no means an old fashioned recital, but rather an evening of music planned for the enjoyment of all.

The next meeting of the Mother's Auxiliary will be held Friday, April 28, at which time the members will celebrate the Fifth Anniversary of the founding of this organization. A special program is being planned and all mothers are cordially invited to attend.

Announce Half Million Dollar Building and Remodeling Program

A $500,000 building and remodeling program for Temple Emanuel was announced this week by Dr. Albert I. Gordon, rabbi of the Newton synagogue.

Efforts to make the congregation's dreams for a Temple center adequate for the needs of a greatly expanded membership will begin April 16.

Peter Groper, president of the Congregation and general chairman of the Building Fund Drive, has announced plans for the campaign to raise the necessary half-million dollars over a 30-day period.

The building program calls for construction of a new synagogue adjacent to the present Temple. An extensive remodeling of the older building will transform it into a community center for the many educational, spiritual and recreational needs of the rapidly growing Jewish community.

In citing the need for extension of facilities of Temple Emanuel, Dr. Gordon said:

"We have a congregation which has grown from 26 families to 738 families in 15 years. Our classrooms are filled to the overflowing with children. Those who come to worship in the synagogue or in the chapel are crowded into areas built for far fewer numbers than we try to accommodate."

"Youth activities are hampered as are our social and cultural programs for the young and the adults."

At a recent preliminary meeting of volunteers who will work to make a success of the coming Building Fund Drive, Mr. Groper told the gathering that present enrollment in the religious schools of Temple Emanuel is 553 children.

He pointed out that many of the youngsters are attending classes held at the Andover Newton Theological School because of lack of space at the Temple.

"We are grateful to authorities of that school for coming to our assistance at a time of need," said Mr. Groper, "but the time has come when we must provide all the classrooms we need under our own roof."

The building-remodeling plans call for 20 classrooms equipped with facilities equal to those in the most modern public schools. In addition to the classrooms and the new Temple, there will be a chapel for daily services, a community hall, a large kitchen which can handle the needs of 400 persons at one time, a library and administrative offices.

Dr. Gordon has declared that few Jewish communities in America have grown as rapidly as has that in Newton. When Temple Emanuel was established in 1935, there were but 490 families of Jewish faith in the city. Since that time, this number has increased to an estimated 3000 families.

Many of these have sought to take part in the spiritual, edu-

tional and social activities of the Temple on Ward street but they have been unable to do so because of over-crowded conditions. "Our building is literally bursting at the seams," said Dr. Gordon, "and we are improperly equipped to provide our present membership and those who wish to join with us the opportunities they seek."

Serving as members of the advisory committee of the Building Fund Drive are Dr. Gordon, Irwin Benjamin, Ralph Cohn, Ira I. Nelson and George E. Gordon. Other officers are: Benjamin Sriberg, secretary; Leon Kabler, auditor; Rubin Epstein, treasurer; Louis I. Rosenfield, assistant treasurer; Joe Greenbaum and Joseph G. Deitz, co-chairmen of the publicity committee.

Co-general chairmen are Louis Rosenfield, Arthur Rosenberg, Joe Greenbaum and Bennett Rockman. Vice chairmen are Abraham Kaye, Mark A. Edison, Jules Baer, Harry Sher, Rubin Epstein and Maurice Alperin.

Team captains are Meyer Armet, Robert Freedman, Dr. Lawrence Perlmutter, Dr. Sam Hirsch, Ralph Feldman, Milton Shapiro, George Neitlich, Ben Maltz, Sam Bass, Harry Fisher, Ben Freeman, Leonard Kabler, Frank Landy, Bob Orlick and Noah Solomon.

2. Do you know of any item sold to put on a baby's bed to keep him from jumping out?

Mrs. A. S. B.
1. Saturate the wallpaper with a solution of one part vinegar to three parts water. Since it is very important to soak the paper thoroughly, work over four sections at a time. Apply the liquid with a sponge or brush, and when you have soaked the fourth section, go back to the first section; repeat this process three or four times. The paper should then be wet enough to peel off. If not soak it again.

2. Sorry—no. You might try putting baby to bed in an infant's sleeping bag.

I have just purchased a rather heavy type all wool suit. The skirt is straight and slim, and I would like to keep it from bagging. I have heard about sewing a piece of saten or taffeta in the inside to prevent stretching. Which material is better for this, and how is it done, exactly?

Mrs. L. P.
Either material you mention can be used, but be sure it is closely woven. Measure your skirt from the waist to about two inches below the hips. Cut the fabric this length and the width of the skirt across the back, allowing 1/2 inch for each seam. Tack the piece to the wrong side of the skirt to get a perfect fit, tapering from the widest spot to the waistline. Then sew the lining along each side skirt seam. My electric roaster table has casters which leave black marks on the linoleum floor. Is there an easy way to remove them?

Mrs. T. R.
Wash them with turpentine. We would like to know of a way to recondition old paint brushes.

Mrs. C. S.
There is a product on the market which will soften any brush, no matter how hard. It is sold in hardware stores; if you call us, we will give you its name. My niece dropped some cologne on my dining room table. I have tried different polishes with no results. Can the stain be removed?

Mrs. A. C.
There's enough alcohol in cologne to completely eat away a shellacked finish. In that case, refinishing is necessary. On varnished surfaces, such spots can often be removed by rubbing with oil of peppermint or salad oil, then with cigarette ashes. Rub briskly in a circular motion. Wipe off with clear oil.

A group of students from the F. A. Day Junior High School visited the Temporary Headquarters of the Museum of Science at Science Park last Friday. They were accompanied by their instructor, Hattie R. Newton Council Of Church Women Aiding With Ecumenical Register

All over the United States an Ecumenical Register is being sponsored by the United Council of Church Women. This national organization will soon become the Women's Department of the newly organized National Council of Churches of Christ in America with expanded opportunities and responsibilities. In the desire to make more effective the participation of church women in the new National Council, the Newton Council of Church Women is cooperating in the Ecumenical Register.

Mrs. Alice Dixon Bond states her conviction regarding the significance of this movement as follows: "The hand that rocks the cradle does not rule our confused and troubled world. But it could. For if that hand were joined to the willing hand of another woman and hers should clasp that of still another and so on and on, until those hands, joined in faith and Christian purpose, should circle the land, then indeed would the world be led along the 'ways of gentleness and the paths of peace.'"

"In unity there is strength, we know, but the need for that strength, expressed in Christian service and dedicated to the making of a better world, was never greater than it is at this exacting moment. And at this moment an opportunity is being offered to Protestant women of all denominations to move forward together and through their concerted effort bring to our country, and perhaps to the world, the living reality of The Sermon on the Mount."

"It was at the national Board Meeting of the United Council of Church Women in Los Angeles during a discussion concerning new opportunities for Christian unity and the resultant increased power of Christian service that the idea was born when someone suggested the Ecumenical Register."

Safety Training Should Be Part Of Training

"The way your child walks, runs, and plays," Chief Philip Purcell of the Newton Police Department stated today in connection with April's program of traffic safety education, "may well determine his future—or lack of it."

Chief Purcell pointed out that the National Safety Council lists inadequate safety training on the part of parents as an indirect cause for many of the annual traffic deaths among children under 15 years of age.

"National Safety Council figures show about a third of the children between five and 15 years old killed in traffic accidents each year were playing in the street at the time," he said. "About one-sixth of them ran or walked from behind cars and a fourth of them were struck while crossing between intersections. In far too many of these cases the child had never been taught that what he was doing was dangerous."

"Our children must know how to walk and play safely. Parents are urged to impress the following rules on their children:

1. Remember—the streets are for cars—not scooters, tricycles, or play.
2. Cross the street only at the corner, preferably at one with an automatic signal or traffic officer. Look both ways, then for turning traffic, and cross only when the way is clear.
3. Never forget that bicycles are subject to the same rules and regulations governing automobiles, including the careful observance of signs and signals.

"With about 2300 children between the ages of five and 15, alone, being killed in traffic accidents each year," the Chief said, "it's time we face the facts. We depend upon the parents to help in every way."

NEWTON COUPLE HONORED—Mr. and Mrs. Herman Gilman of Park Avenue, Newton, were guests of honor at the annual membership meeting of the Combined Jewish Appeal of Greater Boston of which Mr. Gilman served as president for the past two years. They were presented a set of candelabra by Irving Usen of Newton on behalf of a group of friends "in appreciation of your devotion to philanthropic causes." Mr. and Mrs. Gilman left for an extended automobile tour of the West Coast following last week's meeting.

Combined Jewish Appeal Volunteers to Visit All Contributors Here Sunday

Combined Jewish Appeal volunteers will visit every contributor in Newton on "C"-Day (Cash Collection Day) Sunday to secure payment on pledges.

Newton leaders who have been planning and organizing the "C"-Day effort are Etta Louis Goldstein; Mrs. Daniel Mordecai; Mrs. David Stearns; Eric Marmorek and Paul Salter, who strongly urge all Newton Combined Jewish Appeal contributors to stay home on Sunday morning and prepare to welcome their visitors with cash payment.

The Newton "C"-Day effort is part of the greatest one-day collection drive in Combined Jewish Appeal history. Sunday morning, hundreds of workers in every Metropolitan Boston community will make an intensive house-to-house canvas to collect cash for the 187 local, national and overseas agencies supported by the Combined Jewish Appeal. The "C"-Day activity is the high spot in the traditional Combined Jewish Appeal April Pledge Redemption Month.

Chief beneficiaries of the Combined Jewish Appeal are the 22 health, welfare and recreation agencies of the Associated Jewish Philanthropies, and the United Jewish Appeal, which supports relief programs for European DP's, gives help to new arrivals in this country, and contributes to the upbuilding and development of Israel.

Fourth Annual Spring Concert To Be Given May 12

The Community Chorus of the Newtons will present its fourth annual Spring Concert at the Newton High School auditorium Friday, May 12, at 8:15 p.m. The Community Chorus is being conducted this year by James H. Remley, supervisor of music in the Newton public schools. Mr. Remley has planned a most interesting program which should be of interest to all who enjoy good choral music.

One feature of the concert will be the first presentation in this part of the country of "Lincoln Lyrics," the music of which was composed by the contemporary Canadian composer, George Frederick McKay. This is setting to music of eight poems by Edwin Markham on the life of Abraham Lincoln. The music is modern in style and is written in many contrasting moods.

Membership in the Community Chorus is still open to men and women who enjoy singing and having an active part in the presentation of good choral music. Rehearsals are held every Tuesday evening at the Frank A. Day Junior High School, Newtonville (Crafts st. entrance) at 8 o'clock.

Group to Broadcast Over WCRB Apr. 29

A group of children from the All Newton Music School will be heard on Station WCRB, April 29 at 9:30 a. m., it was learned at a meeting of the Mother's Auxiliary of the All Newton Music School. Miss Voltairine Block, who conducts the "Children's Song Bag of Music" is well known in the radio world, and also devotes many hours to the entertainment of young patients in the children's wards of Boston hospitals.

Mrs. Casper Swaney, Chairman of the Mother's Auxiliary, announced that the Pop Concert was a financial success, and that again this year the mortgage on the building will be reduced. Gratitude to the mothers who spent many hours helping with the plans for the Concert was expressed by Mrs. B. Alden Thresher, President of the Board of Trustees, and Mrs. Ralph Hall, General Chairman in charge of the Pop Concert.

Mrs. William Worth told the mothers that the date May 31, has been set for the Annual Spring Concert, which gives friends and parents of the students at the Music school a pleasant opportunity to hear what they have accomplished during the year. This event is by no means an old fashioned recital, but rather an evening of music planned for the enjoyment of all.

The next meeting of the Mother's Auxiliary will be held Friday, April 28, at which time the members will celebrate the Fifth Anniversary of the founding of this organization. A special program is being planned and all mothers are cordially invited to attend.

Announce Half Million Dollar Building and Remodeling Program

A $500,000 building and remodeling program for Temple Emanuel was announced this week by Dr. Albert I. Gordon, rabbi of the Newton synagogue.

Efforts to make the congregation's dreams for a Temple center adequate for the needs of a greatly expanded membership will begin April 16.

Peter Groper, president of the Congregation and general chairman of the Building Fund Drive, has announced plans for the campaign to raise the necessary half-million dollars over a 30-day period.

The building program calls for construction of a new synagogue adjacent to the present Temple. An extensive remodeling of the older building will transform it into a community center for the many educational, spiritual and recreational needs of the rapidly growing Jewish community.

In citing the need for extension of facilities of Temple Emanuel, Dr. Gordon said:

"We have a congregation which has grown from 26 families to 738 families in 15 years. Our classrooms are filled to the overflowing with children. Those who come to worship in the synagogue or in the chapel are crowded into areas built for far fewer numbers than we try to accommodate."

"Youth activities are hampered as are our social and cultural programs for the young and the adults."

At a recent preliminary meeting of volunteers who will work to make a success of the coming Building Fund Drive, Mr. Groper told the gathering that present enrollment in the religious schools of Temple Emanuel is 553 children.

He pointed out that many of the youngsters are attending classes held at the Andover Newton Theological School because of lack of space at the Temple.

"We are grateful to authorities of that school for coming to our assistance at a time of need," said Mr. Groper, "but the time has come when we must provide all the classrooms we need under our own roof."

The building-remodeling plans call for 20 classrooms equipped with facilities equal to those in the most modern public schools.

In addition to the classrooms and the new Temple, there will be a chapel for daily services, a community hall, a large kitchen which can handle the needs of 400 persons at one time, a library and administrative offices.

Dr. Gordon has declared that few Jewish communities in America have grown as rapidly as has that in Newton. When Temple Emanuel was established in 1935, there were but 490 families of Jewish faith in the city. Since that time, this number has increased to an estimated 3000 families.

Many of these have sought to take part in the spiritual, educational and social activities of the Temple on Ward street but they have been unable to do so because of over-crowded conditions. "Our building is literally bursting at the seams," said Dr. Gordon, "and we are improperly equipped to provide our present membership and those who wish to join with us the opportunities they seek."

Serving as members of the advisory committee of the Building Fund Drive are Dr. Gordon, Irwin Benjamin, Ralph Cohn, Ira I. Nelson and George E. Gordon.

Other officers are: Benjamin Striberg, secretary; Leon Kabler, auditor; Rubin Epstein, treasurer; Louis I. Rosenfield, assistant treasurer; Joe Greenbaum and Joseph G. Deitz, co-chairmen of the publicity committee.

Team captains are Meyer Armet, Robert Freedman, Dr. Lawrence Perlmutter, Dr. Sam Hirsch, Ralph Feldman, Milton Shapiro, George Neitlich, Ben Maltz, Sam Bass, Harry Fisher, Ben Freeman, Leonard Kabler, Frank Landy, Bob Orlick and Noah Solomon.

Eddie Wishnow, Martin Alin-

tuck, Dr. Percy Lightman, Dr. A. T. Finkelstein, Sidney Govenar, Sam Lewis, David Sherer, Arthur Swett, Joe Waxman, Ralph Bass, Sol Finkelstein, Philip Gilfix, Sol Rotenberg and Louis Rotman.

Household Hints

1. Could you please tell me a good product to remove wall paper? I do not want to use a steamer.

2. Do you know of any item sold to put on a baby's bed to keep him from jumping out?

Mrs. A. S. B.
1. Saturate the wallpaper with a solution of one part vinegar to three parts water. Since it is very important to soak the paper thoroughly, work over four sections at a time. Apply the liquid with a sponge or brush, and when you have soaked the fourth section, go back to the first section; repeat this process three or four times. The paper should then be wet enough to peel off. If not soak it again.

2. Sorry—no. You might try putting baby to bed in an infant's sleeping bag.

I have just purchased a rather heavy type all wool suit. The skirt is straight and slim, and I would like to keep it from bagging. I have heard about sewing a piece of satin or taffeta in the inside to prevent stretching. Which material is better for this, and how is it done, exactly?

Mrs. L. P.
Either material you mention can be used, but be sure it is closely woven. Measure your skirt from the waist to about two inches below the hips. Cut the fabric this length and the width of the skirt across the back, allowing 1/2 inch for each seam. Tack the piece to the wrong side of the skirt to get a perfect fit, tapering from the widest spot to the waistline. Then sew the lining along each side skirt seam. My electric roaster table has casters which leave black marks on the linoleum floor. Is there an easy way to remove them?

Mrs. T. R.
Wash them with turpentine. We would like to know of a way to recondition old paint brushes.

Mrs. C. S.
There is a product on the market which will soften any brush, no matter how hard. It is sold in hardware stores; if you call us, we will give you its name. My niece dropped some cologne on my dining room table. I have tried different polishes with no results. Can the stain be removed?

Mrs. A. C.
There's enough alcohol in cologne to completely eat away a shellacked finish. In that case, refinishing is necessary. On varnished surfaces, such spots can often be removed by rubbing with oil of peppermint or salad oil, then with cigarette ashes. Rub briskly in a circular motion. Wipe off with clear oil.

A group of students from the F. A. Day Junior High School visited the Temporary Headquarters of the Museum of Science at Science Park last Friday. They were accompanied by their instructor, Hattie R. Hinkle, and by Walter H. Sears, instructor. Among those making the trip to see man-made lightning, Herkemiah, the pet porcupine, a Geiger Counter, miniature dioramas and other fascinating displays on exhibit, were: Leonard Barbo, Joe Butler, Joe Catanzaro, Anthony Colletti, Joseph Patuto, Richard Phaneuf, Robert Proctor, Philip Proia, George Bethoney, Nancy Barroomey, Winifred Holmes, Marie Napollitano, Loretta Pellegrino, Sheila Quinn, Barbara Russo, Carolyn Sennett, Ruth York, Thomas Butler, Anthony Crova, Roger Fleming, Donald Raymond, Elizabeth Bagley, Carol Bartley, Anita, Carvelli, Rose Colella, Mona Crowley, Beverly Cummings, Elinor Fredericksen, Gloria Margnarelli, Suzanne Roberts, Barbara Saltman, Audrey Smith, Dorothy Kirwan, Richard Battista, Martha Sutherland, George Russo, Eugene Lee, Sandra Civetti, Janet Folan, Elsie Arcece, Ruth Dionis, Rita McMullen, Julie Anness.

Newton Council Of Church Women Aiding With Ecumenical Register

All over the United States an Ecumenical Register is being sponsored by the United Council of Church Women. This national organization will soon become the Women's Department of the newly organized National Council of Churches of Christ in America with expanded opportunities and responsibilities. In the desire to make more effective the participation of church women in the new National Council, the Newton Council of Church Women is cooperating in the Ecumenical Register.

Mrs. Alice Dixon Bond states her conviction regarding the significance of this movement as follows: "The hand that rocks the cradle does not rule our confused and troubled world. But it could. For if that hand were joined to the willing hand of another woman and hers should clasp that of still another and so on and on, until those hands, joined in faith and Christian purpose, should circle the land, then indeed would the world be led along the 'ways of gentleness and the paths of peace.'"

"In unity there is strength, we know, but the need for that strength, expressed in Christian service and dedicated to the making of a better world, was never greater than it is at this exacting moment. And at this moment an opportunity is being offered to Protestant women of all denominations to move forward together and through their concerted effort bring to our country, and perhaps to the world, the living reality of The Sermon on the Mount."

"It was at the national Board Meeting of the United Council of Church Women in Los Angeles during a discussion concerning new opportunities for Christian unity and the resultant increased power of Christian service that the idea was born when someone suggested the Ecumenical Register."

Watch for the return of lace to fashionable wardrobes this spring and summer. It all started with a new silverware pattern. And Try These New Recipes For Something Really Different

BY DOROTHY JAMES

The person who doesn't like cheese is, indeed, an exception. But even some of our most expert and talented cooks don't fully realize the many uses to which it can be put in preparing a meal, or that it can be just as tasty in a salad or dessert as in a sandwich.

A friend in the south recently sent us some cheese recipes which are extremely popular in that section of the country. You might like to try one or more of them when you're in the mood for something a little different.

One is for a comparatively simple salad built around tomatoes, cream cheese and egg-yolk. The secret, our friend confides, is to use non-juicy, slightly under-ripe tomatoes and a very cold cheese mixture. This is her recipe:

2 firm tomatoes
1 three-ounce package cream cheese
Milk
Hard-cooked egg yolk
Water cress French dressing.
Peel tomatoes and chill them. Slightly soften well-drained cream cheese with milk. Form two rows of petals on each tomato by pressing level teaspoons of the softened cheese against the side of the tomato and then drawing the teaspoon down with a curling motion. Sprinkle the centre of each tomato with the yolk, pressed through a strainer. Serve on water cress with dressing. This will make two generous servings.

A real southern favorite is known as a corn meal sandwich. We think you will find it a real treat some day when you aren't quite sure what to offer for lunch. This is really a bit different.

1/2 cup cold water
1/2 cup corn meal
1 1/2 cups boiling water
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 pound sliced American cheddar cheese

1 egg
Fine cracker crumbs
Butter or margarine
1 can condensed tomato soup, undiluted
1 bay leaf
A dash of mace.

Mix the corn meal with the cold water. Stir this mixture into the boiling water, to which salt has been added. Cook for five minutes over direct heat, stirring constantly. Cook an additional 30 minutes over hot water, stirring occasionally. Pour into a small loaf pan and chill. When firm, cut into fourth-inch pieces.

For each serving place a slice of cheese between two slices of corn meal. Dip in the well-beaten egg, then in cracker crumbs. Brown on both sides in butter or margarine in a skillet or brush both sides with melted butter or margarine and brown in a moderate 350 degree oven, by simmering the undiluted soup, with the bay leaf and mace for at least half an hour. This should provide six servings.

Marye Dahne, who for the past 26 years has been developing interesting cheese dishes for the Krafts Food Company, has some other highly interesting recipes in her newly published "The Cheese Cook Book." One is called:

CHEESE STRATA
12 slices day-old bread
1/2 pound American cheddar cheese, sliced
4 eggs
2 1/2 cups milk
1/2 teaspoon prepared mustard
1 tablespoon chopped onion
1 1/2 teaspoons salt
A dash of pepper.

Arrange six slices of bread (crusts trimmed) in the bottom of a baking dish, 12x7x2 inches. Cover with cheese, then with the remaining bread. Beat the eggs, add the milk, mustard, onion, salt and pepper, and pour over the bread. Let stand for one hour. Bake in very moderate oven (325 degrees) one hour. Serve immediately. This will give you four to six servings.

This is a good dish in which to use any left-over cheese sandwiches, and Miss Dahne adds that some people like to serve it with a blackberry jelly.

Know Your City Government Public Health Nursing

Another in a series of feature articles presented by the Graphic as a public service to better acquaint the citizens of Newton with their government.

Mrs. Elizabeth K. Miller is a native of Newton and was educated in the Newton public schools. In addition to a business training at the Hickox Secretarial School, Mrs. Miller graduated from the Newton Hospital Training School for Nurses, and later received the Post-Graduate Public Health Nursing Certificate from Simmons College. Mrs. Miller was employed as a Staff Public Health Nurse by the Newton Health Department from 1929 to 1942. Also, she served in the Army Nurse Corps in the South Pacific and China-Burma-India Theatre during World War II. Upon reverting to an inactive status, Mrs. Miller emerged with the rank of Captain. Since her overseas experience, Mrs. Miller has been engaged as an Assistant in Cancer Research, Office Nurse for a Boston Ear, Nose and Throat Specialist, and Head Nurse and Night Supervisor at the Cushing Veterans' Administration Hospital in Framingham. She was induced to return to the Newton Health Department in January, 1948, as Supervisor of Nursing.

Q. How many nurses are there in the Health Department?

There are nine staff nurses and one nursing supervisor. Each nurse is responsible for a generalized nursing service in her district.

Q. How are these districts arranged?

The city is divided into nine districts. While the division is based more or less upon the school population, other health factors are considered as well. Most everyone is familiar with their own public health nurse, but I think I'll take this opportunity to mention them by name: Miss Myra Dority, Miss Mary A. Welch, Mrs. Maud Kemp, Miss Lillian Regan, Miss Martha McLean, Miss Edna Moore, Mrs. Smith Packer, Miss Letitia Doten, and Miss Evelyn MacBey.

Q. Just what is generalized nursing service?

Many people refer to the public health nurse as the "school nurse." They don't realize that the school health program, while a very important one, is still only one of their many functions. Back in 1910, however, the first nurse appointed did work more or less only in the schools. Her work proved to be so valuable that other schools soon requested that a nurse be detailed to visit them. Since that time, one program after another has been constantly added to keep up with ever-growing community needs.

Q. What are these other programs?

Well—besides the field of public and parochial schools—and incidentally, we have 27 public and 4 parochial schools—the nursing program includes also pre-school, adult, handicapped, tuberculosis, and other communicable diseases, health education, mental hygiene and nutrition. The nurses are responsible, too, for clinic service in the tuberculosis, immunization, and dental clinics, and for the pre-school conferences.

Q. Are all these services which you mention available to all the residents in Newton?

Indeed they are available to everyone in the city without regard to financial status with the one exception of dental clinic service, and this is offered only to families who can't afford private dental care. In this case the nurse determines the eligibility of the family before making dental appointments.

Q. The nurses seem to have a wide variety of duties.

Yes—that's true. Each nurse in the Newton Health Department has more responsibility and a broader scope of work than will be found in any other community in Massachusetts. And in order to give constant good service in her district, each nurse must own a car. You see the public health nurse is no longer the same person that she was four decades ago—a messenger of mercy only—sent into the homes of a few of the poor to care for the sick. Now, whether the home is the usual average comfortable one or whether it bears one of the best addresses in the city, the nurse is always ready to make some helpful suggestion to those who seek her aid. She knows all the community resources and she has the ability and stick-to-it-iveness to get things done. She's the trained specialist in her field. It's her job in all her relationships with adults and children not only to help them obtain good health but to help them keep it as well.

Q. What kind of training must the Newton public health nurse have?

First, the nurses must be graduates of an approved hospital training school. They must be registered in Massachusetts and must qualify under Civil Service appointment. In addition, all the nurses of the department have taken post-graduate study in public health nursing. This amounts to at least four years of professional preparation beyond high school. Also, in order to keep up to public health nursing standards and public health research today, study must be constant and in-service education is required. Besides the professional preparation, though, there are some other very essential qualities that a public health nurse must have.

Q. Do you have to know how to get along with people?

Yes—mighty important—when one considers that the public health nurse is the liaison between the school, the home, and the community. She's the link, too, between the family physician and the health department and the family and the community agency. I was thinking also of her teaching ability. While the public health nurse is not a teacher perhaps in the formal sense of the word, her every thought and concern is to bring new and needed health information to the family. It is often the informal type of teaching—for example—demonstrating nursing care in a communicable disease case.

Q. Does the health department nurse give bedside care?

No, this nursing service is efficiently done by the Newton District Nursing Association—a Community Chest agency—and they are also responsible for maternal hygiene and infant care. At the age of two years the children followed by their association are referred to the Health Department for follow-up and pre-school conference appointments.

Q. How does the public health nurse work all these activities into an 8-hour day?

She won't work all the activities in every day. Just to make it a bit more clear, suppose I give a sample day—let us say that 8:30 in the morning finds Miss Public Health Nurse at one of the schools she covers, helping the school doctor in the morning inspection of pupils coming back to school after illness. After the doctor goes she is busy doing one or two first aid treatments—perhaps a cut finger or taking care of a bleeding nose—all the while being careful to tell little Johnny or Mary just why and how we treat the cut or sore. The principal next asks for a report on a call made the previous day on a child sick with rheumatic fever. The nurse has much information on the youngster, his care and treatment, and she has been able to help the family improve the nursing care at home and has interpreted the doctor's orders to the family. Next the nurse makes ready for the annual physical examination of fifteen children in kindergarten who have been previously scheduled, and to which the parents have been invited.

Q. Parents are invited to these medical examinations. Do many attend?

Indeed, yes. Newton parents are much interested in the health of their children and show a very notable response to invitations to attend the physical examinations. Last year over 81 per cent of the kindergarten children were accompanied to the examination by parents. Usually it's the mother, but occasionally the father comes too. Well, to continue with the remainder of the morning. The nurse finds time to re-test the eyes of a third grade child, first screened by the teacher. She finds that the child will need the attention of an eye specialist and with the assistance of the teacher a report of the test will be sent to the parent with any other symptoms of eye-strain noted.

Q. Doesn't the nurse have any regular office hours?

Office hours are kept in the health department office from 12 p.m. The nurse then writes up her records, collects calls which have come in in the morning and makes out her afternoon schedule for home visiting if she is not due to attend a clinic. She also uses this time to discuss any special problems which may have arisen in the nursing office or get advice from Dr. Morris, our Director of Public Health, on some regulations. Shortly after 2 p.m. the nurse may be found visiting a new tuberculosis case.

Q. Just what would be the duty of the nurse in visiting these tuberculosis cases?

She would first contact the doctor who reported the tuberculosis case to the Health Department and give help, if needed, in interpreting his orders to the patient and family. She would help the family to provide good nursing care for the patient. Since tuberculosis is a communicable disease, she would demonstrate the proper technique to both the patient and family to prevent its spread. This would include instruction in such matters as disposal of sputum, boiling of dishes, care of linen, and etc. Among other things she helps the patient to gain a hopeful and optimistic attitude toward the disease while waiting to enter the sanatorium. The family, through their physician, is told of the x-ray facilities

Vacation Time Cape Cod

A traveler on Cape Cod once observed, "They call a house a house, but a house with a shed is a village." That observation is in keeping with the quaintness that is Cape Cod.

The Cape is an enchanting land of scrub pine and sand dunes, of quaint elm-shaded villages and thrilling ocean vistas. Smooth, safe beaches and delightful warm waters welcome the visitor. Sheltered bays invite sailing and salt water fishing; lakes and ponds by the hundreds provide variety for angler and bather; golf courses are plentiful.

Cape Cod, according to the Massachusetts Development and Industrial Commission, offers many attractions. There are summer theatres, artists and writers colonies, interesting antique shops, tennis, baseball and polo. Picture windmills add charm—the oldest at Eastham still producing corn "ground with the wind."

Modern highways and winding, hide-and-go-seek by-ways carve Cape Cod into jigsaw puzzle parts. There is every variety of splendid accommodations for food and lodging, from swank hotels to cozy inn, tourist homes and cabins. Cape Cod is the land where cranberry sauce

"grows on bushes"; of sweet Cotuit oysters and tempting quahog chowder; of delicious striped bass, bluefish and fresh-from-the-sea lobster.

Each Cape village has its own individuality. In Sandwich are vestiges of its famous glass. The old Colonial homes of Barnstable, Yarmouth and Dennis rest beneath stately elms; Orleans and Chatham still retain the flavor of the sea.

Then there's Provincetown with its monument to the first landing of the Pilgrims, quaint streets, famous artists colony and Museum. Here the Mayflower Compact was signed.

Highland Light at Truro, one of the many on Cape Cod, offers a beautiful view of the Atlantic. In Yannis, center of the Cape, there are smart shops, sophisticated dining and dancing spots. A visitor will enjoy, too, Falmouth; home of the rambler rose, and the important Marine Biological Laboratory at Woods Hole.

Curving a hundred miles into the Atlantic, Cape Cod is scarcely eight miles wide at some points. It is a vacationland whose endless variety brings visitors back from season to season, from year to year and generation to generation.

Backyard Gardener

By ALFRED W. BOICOURT

Department of Horticulture, University of Massachusetts

How about planting a few flowers this year? I bet they would do lot for that bare-faced garage. They would go nicely with your neighbor's hedge as a background. No excuses now, for there is a flower for every spot: boiling sand to a dense shade; desert sand to a swamp; or just a pile of ashes.

Do you have to be a gardener? Definitely not. In fact, some plants will thrive better if you never read a garden column.

What perennial flowers will do well at your house? I say perennial flowers for a starter, for they will be there next year to remind you to plant even more. You can get many ideas in your own neighborhood about kinds of flowers to plant. For example, clumps of phlox, daylily, gas plant (dictamnus), meadow rue, and hollyhock will last for years in a neglected border. Given a little attention and an average soil they will bloom prolifically.

Source of Plants

The beginner should accept gifts. Just have that hungry perennial look and you will be flooded with iris, peonies, coreopsis, or that beautiful thing—"I just can't remember the name." Garden enemy No. 1 is not the Japanese beetle, but the kind soul that leaves an unnamed flower on the doorstep. Plant it as an edging plant and it will bound to six feet—or plant it in the background and it will surely end up creeping. Oh, yes, the donor is not quite sure of the color of the blossom. Seriously, though, try to give plant identification and description as accurately as possible when giving away plants. I know a gardener who names his plants after the donor, like calling the plants Mrs. Webb or Joe Brown. You can see it would be interesting, amusing, or embarrassing, depending on where the plants were placed in the flower border.

I'd like to take this opportunity to thank everyone who has ever given me a plant. Some plants that I am not quite sure of go into a row in the vegetable garden and stay there until they prove their worth—sort of a test row. When buying plants I always select a named variety from a reliable dealer. In my small garden I have to rely on the perfection of each plant.

In conclusion, I would like to remind gardeners and would-be gardeners that you can start dividing many perennials as soon as the ground is workable. A good rule to follow is: flowers that bloom in the fall divide in the spring; flowers that bloom at the Diagnostic clinic, and appointments for x-ray would be made. The next visit is to a pre-school child whose mother is having difficulty with him in meal-planning. Arrangements are made to have the child visit the pre-school conference where besides a thorough physical examination by a pediatrician, and a dental examination, the parent can discuss the youngster's food habits and diet with the nutritionist. The public health nurse will, of course, assist the mother after the conference in carrying out suggestions made by the nutritionist.

Q. Public health is for the community and not for just a few, as in years ago?

Yes, public health nursing is really family health supervision and not just supervision of the individual case. Now to go on to the remaining calls for the day. These may range from bringing information on diphtheria immunization to the mother of a kindergarten, and explaining the need for a "booster dose," to perhaps assisting someone who needs help on a low sodium diet which has been ordered by the doctor. Just sample calls in a usual public health nursing day.

Q. From your sample day, the public health nurse is as necessary to a good health program as the typewriter and telephone in a business?

Yes, and the public health nurse feels necessary—as a salesman of health. She feels a great deal of satisfaction, too, in helping people live happier, healthier and more productive lives. A little poem expresses it this way:

"There's a destiny that makes us brothers
No one goes his way alone
But all that we send into the lives of others
Comes back into our own."

Census Is Surrounded By Secrecy

Residents of this area today were given assurance by Andrew J. Kirwan, Census District Supervisor, that any information obtained from them by census takers will be held in strictest confidence.

Kirwan said that the law which authorizes taking the 17th Decennial Census of the United States expressly forbids census takers and other employees from communicating to any person not a sworn census employee any information obtained in the discharge of their official duties.

Severe penalties are provided for violation of the Census law on the part of employees of the Census Bureau. To reveal any such information, he pointed out, would render the Census taker liable, upon conviction, to a fine of as much as $1,000 and imprisonment for two years. Moreover, prosecution for such offense may be instituted even if disclosure of information is made after employment with the Bureau of the Census is ended.

Kirwan said that the census law even forbids a census enumerator to answer if he is asked what the population is of his district or any smaller area. Such requests, whether from newspapers, local officials, or individuals, must be referred to the office of the Census District Supervisor. This office will make a preliminary announcement of the population soon after the District's enumeration has been completed.

Census enumerators are directed not to omit any dwelling house, structure, farm or resident in their districts, and not to enumerate willfully as a resident of his district any person not entitled to be counted in the enumeration district. Enumerators also are forbidden to enter upon the questionnaire the name of any fictitious or untruthful statement concerning any person or farm enumerated. Conviction upon such a charge would lay the enumerator liable to a fine of as much as $2,000 and five years' imprisonment.

Under provisions of the Census Act, enumerators are not allowed to combine their work with any other occupation, such as collecting information for directory publishers, soliciting subscriptions to newspapers or magazines, or selling or advertising any article whatsoever. The census takers are not allowed to engage in any activity or discussion with respondents that is not directly related to the work of obtaining required information. They may not, for example, leave any cards or other literature which does not relate to the taking of the census.

"Here's the Pitch"

By "Bump" Hadley

AS YOU LOOK over the various major league ball clubs, prior to the opening of the 1950 season, it would appear that the weakest position, generally speaking, is first base. Oh, there are some outstanding first basemen, I'll grant you. Eddie Waitkus of the Phils can play first on anybody's ball club. Mickey Vernon of Cleveland Indians is an old reliable. Ferris Fain of the Athletics isn't bad.

But take first base as a whole, and then ask yourself, "What's happening?" In my days in the major leagues, almost every club in either league had terrific first basemen.

The Cleveland Indians had Hal Trosky. The New York Yankees had the one and only Lou Gehrig. The Philadelphia Athletics had Jimmy Fox. The St. Louis Browns had George Sisler. The Red Sox had Babe Dahlgren, the Detroit Tigers had Hank Greenberg and the Washington Senators had Joe Judge.

Over in the National League, the New York Giants had William, the Terrible, Terry. The Chicago Cubs had Charlie Grimm, the St. Louis Cardinals had "Sunny" Jim Bottomley and then big Johnny Mize. There wasn't a soft touch in the lot.

There may be a new crop of these fence busters in the making. That kid Dick Kryhoski coming up with the Tigers looks like a bit of all right. The Yankees have an outstanding prospect in Joe Collins, who did a lot of slugging in Kansas City a year ago.

Last year, I thought this Gordon Goldsberry of the Chicago White Sox looked pretty good. And, of course, we still hope that big Walt Dropo will put some new dents in that left field fence at Fenway Park one of these days.

But unless the rookies come through, first base will no longer be synonymous with power!

Inspect Now For Damage Done To Home

The coming of spring is an annual reminder to home owners to inspect their houses for damage done by winter weather and to make necessary repairs.

All of the exterior parts of a house—roof, sidewalks, foundations, doors and windows—should be checked because all of them are vulnerable to ice, snow, rain or wind. A close, detailed inspection is recommended because structural weaknesses, the most serious damage, are not always apparent at first glance.

Announce Bids on Six Houses In Newton and Lower Falls

Bids on six houses in Newton and Newton Lower Falls were opened by Commissioner of Public Works William F. Callahan this week as the State sought to sell houses standing in the way of two major highway construction projects.

To make way for the new Northern Circumferential Highway, Route 128, the six houses must be moved within a month. High bidders for the six houses were: Harry J. Friedman, 55 Naples road, Brookline, $3,812 for the house at 48 Belmont park, Newton, formerly owned by David N. Hume. A high bid of $3,301.50 was submitted by Richard B. Clark of 176 Melrose avenue, Needham, for the house at 53 Belmont park, formerly owned by Wesley T. Craig.

A 50-year-old house of nine rooms at 2189 Washington street, Newton, brought a high bid of $89 from Stanley Dennis of 172 Boston street, Dorchester. An eight-room house of the same vintage, located at 2181 Washington street, Newton Lower Falls, formerly owned by William J. Downey, attracted a high bid of $88.50 from Robert F. Hayden, Falmouth avenue, Cotuit, Mass. A third 50-year-old house at 2197 Washington street, the former property of Margaret M. Hegarty, was bid in for $175 by the American Building Wrecking Co. of Allston.

H. Bruce MacDougall of 25 Highland avenue, Newtonville, submitted a high bid of $1,160 for a 30-year-old house at 501 Waban avenue, formerly owned by Mary J. Morse.

Talk By Police Chief Purcell Published In FBI Bulletin

A talk on "Morale" presented by Police Chief Philip Purcell at a retaining session of the FBI National Academy in Washington, was published in the current FBI Law Enforcement Bulletin.

In this talk, Chief Purcell stated: "We may define 'morale' as 'that mental state which renders a man capable of endurance and of exhibiting courage in the presence of danger.'"

"Considering the nature of our duties, it is obvious that good morale is essential to the proper functioning of any law-enforcement group. Now, the rank and file can 'make' or 'break' the department by their activities, conduct, or manner in which they perform their duties. Thus, one of the most important duties of the executive and his assistants is to maintain morale at a high level. How is this done? Every man must understand that the purpose for which the agency exists, that is, protection of life and property, preservation of the peace, and enforcement of the laws, takes precedence over all else. Friendly, congenial relations are desirable, but in the final analysis, we are not there for sociability, and personal feelings should never enter into or interfere with the performance of duty. Every man has a serious obligation to protect and defend all brother officers, physically and otherwise, as long as he is acting within legal limits. He, in turn, is entitled to similar protection.

"Rules, regulations, and policies should be thoroughly thought out, clearly written out, and fully explained to and understood by all personnel. They should be revised periodically to meet and keep pace with changing conditions and times. Invite suggestions from all — it brings out good ideas and encourages confidence in and respect for the man in command. The rules and regulations of one of the Nation's most efficient law enforcement organizations have been made up as the result of difficulties, or the result of suggestions, of employees. Some of the most worthwhile suggestions have come from new employees in the lower brackets. Any suggestions offered should be gone over carefully, then adopted or rejected, and the employee tactfully notified of the action taken.

"Be fair with the men so that they know where they stand. Acknowledge good work — even small jobs well done. The man who does a small job well is fairly certain to perform well on a more important one. Everybody likes a pat on the back.

"Never deal harshly with a man who makes an honest mistake. Rather, explain it thoroughly so that he will understand and will not repeat this error. We have all made them, and hope to be here sufficiently long to make a few more. Our mistakes are the most effective teacher we can have. Remember — the only one who makes no mistakes is the man who does nothing.

"Be kind and considerate with all subordinates, but don't 'coddle' them. Explain everything fully. The lowest man in the unit is just as human as you and I. Just a few years ago, today's executives were among the subordinates, but were taught and qualified by training and experience to supervise, instruct, and assist the others in the performance of their duties.

"Transfer men showing promise so that they may get diversified experience and be encouraged to 'go places.' Follow this policy so that as many men as possible will have a chance to know the different angles of law enforcement.

"Two heads are better than one — beware of 'yes' men; they are useless. Have no pets — it upsets morale and men resent it. It breaks down confidence in and respect for the chief. If you have favorites, some day you will lean on them and will find that they are all front and no back."

CAN DO

Touch Up That Marred Furniture

Stop tearing your hair. That scratch on your new cedar chest needn't be such a dire occurrence.

Minor injuries to your furniture — scratches, dents, stains or scuffs — very often can easily be touched up, filled or concealed so that no one would suspect their presence.

For instance, hair tonic, perfume and similar alcohol stains that turn white are eliminated with some spirits of camphor if you go into action fast. Wipe the whitened surface quickly and give the area a brisk rubbing with a dry cloth immediately. Now a good furniture or wax polish will restore the luster. Use a furniture polish on a satin finish and a polishing wax on a gloss finish.

In the case of very light scratches they can be rendered invisible by the use of either polish or wax alone. Lay on a fairly generous application of the polish in and about the scratch and allow it to dry. Then put polish on the entire surface and, after it has dried, rub it energetically with a dry cloth. The idea here is that the first application builds a sub-surface under the final coat and thus helps to hide the abrasion.

A rottenstone polishing pad provides a good method of restoring the luster to a surface that is checked or marred. Ask your hardware dealer for rottenstone.

To make such a pad, cut a small square of fine-mesh cloth, lay it flat on a table and put about three tablespoonsful of the abrasive in the center. Fold the cloth up from the corners and draw it tight to form a rounded polishing surface. Now pour just a small amount of boiled lard oil over the surface of the marred piece and rub with your pad. Your strokes should work away from the center with a circular overlapping movement. Be sure that you rub across, not with, the scratches.

Gentle Hint Department

Next time your wife lines you up for a job of removing cold-water paint from a wall because it's time for a new color, try using powdered rosin. Dust it lightly on a cloth that has been dipped in hot water and rub the surface with this. This rosin has an abrasive action that is effective in cutting cold-water paint. You can use a large salt shaker to apply the powdered rosin to the cloth.

Know another way to use one of those ordinary folding-type clothes racks, the kind you can get at any hardware store? Normally set upright on the floor, a rack like this can be mounted on a kitchen or basement wall so that, when it's in use, it is difficult for small children to reach the clothes, and, when folded, takes a minimum of space. One lower bar of the rack simply fastens to screw hooks set in the wall. Put it as high as convenient possible in order to get the drying benefit of the warmer air near the ceiling.

If you cover door hinges, knobs and locks with vaseline before you start to paint the woodwork, paint can be wiped off easily if it gets on any of these fixtures.

Census Data to Be Held in Strictest Confidence

Residents of the Newton area were given assurance by Edward L. Hopkins, Census District Supervisor, that any information obtained from them by Census takers will be held in strictest confidence.

He said that the law which authorizes taking the 17th Decennial Census expressly forbids Census takers and other employees from communicating to any person now a sworn Census employee any information obtained in the discharge of their official duties.

Severe penalties are provided for violation of the Census law on the part of employees of the Census Bureau. To reveal any such information, he pointed out, would render the Census taker liable, upon conviction, to a fine of as much as $1000 and imprisonment for two years.

Moreover, prosecution for such offense may be instituted even if disclosure of information is made after employment with the Bureau of Census is ended.

"In view of all of these restrictions, plus the fact that every employee of the Census Bureau is sworn to secrecy, no one need fear that information given to the Census takers in April will be revealed or otherwise misused," Mr. Hopkins declared.

Blue Birds at Birthday Party

Spring has come indeed — and, all in good season, a flock of bluebirds descended upon the Newton Centre Methodist Church recently. These were little Blue Birds, almost fifty of them, dressed in their colorful costume of blue skirts, white blouses, red fronted vests, and little blue peaked caps.

The Blue Birds are the little sisters of the Camp Fire Girls and Thursday they were attending the 40th birthday party of the Camp Fire Organization. It was a get-acquainted party, with two big birthday cakes and colored movies of the Camp Fire Camp Kiwanis in South Hansen, Mass. The presidents of each group helped to cut the cakes.

The 2nd graders at Mason School, whose leader is Mrs. Charles Renker, topped the attendance record with all ten girls, ten mothers, and four guests being present. They were Jane Renker, president; Patsy Blake, Mary Howard, Marguerite Huntoon, Lee Porter, Jane McGrath, Marjorie Monto, Grace Olken, Stephanie Young, Ruth MacDonald. Their guests were Claire Porter, Joan McGrath, Joan Olken, and Anita Minear.

Mrs. Jon Gilber's group from Bowen School also had a large attendance, 10 girls, six mothers, and one visitor. The girls were: Bernadette DiCarlo, president; Jane Gilber, Judy Santucci, Dolores Signore, Margery Carrel, Anne Marie Vasquez, Martha Kuhns, Rosalind Tagliente, Madeline Tolaro and Marcia Curry. Little sister Judy Gilber came as a guest.

Six girls and five mothers attended from Mrs. Herbert Achorn's group of Mason School second graders. The girls were: Ruth Nizel, president; Lynn Achorn, Debby Feinberg, Nancy Bayard, Marilyn Price, and June Watkins. Four mothers and daughters represented Mrs. Isadore Rosenthal's group of fourth graders from Mason and Ward Schools, Joan Rosenthal, Paula Wolfson, Nyra Rice, and Patty Gordon. Public Meeting to Be Held Soon To Discuss Adams' Zone Report

All civic organizations in Wards 1 and 7 and all citizens will be invited to attend a public meeting to be held in the Underwood School, to discuss the Adams Report.

The report, prepared by Professor Adams of M.I.T., recognized national expert on zoning, has been received and is now being studied by the Mayor, the Planning Board, and the Board of Aldermen.

The Planning Board is arranging a meeting to be held at City Hall at which time representatives of all civic groups will be invited to attend and the report will be made public. It is understood that an important portion of this report contains suggestions affecting the Newton Corner area. In order that all citizens of the Newton Corner area may have an opportunity to obtain complete information as to how the adoption of this report would affect Newton Corner and so that they may be given a full opportunity to express their thoughts and give their suggestions to the Aldermen, a public meeting is being arranged, to be held at the Underwood School shortly after the report is made public.

Housing Service Is Set Up to Aid Newton Teachers

A recent survey conducted by the Newton Teachers Federation revealed that a considerable number of Newton teachers are seeking better housing accommodations. New teachers in the system each year also require assistance in getting favorably located. Consequently, the Teachers Federation has developed a housing service which will assist its members in obtaining decent living quarters. It hopes to get the active cooperation of Newton citizens in this project.

During this week in Frederick, the Newton students will participate in community events and study as much as possible about the Maryland community. This trip is part of a workshop in leadership and community life taught by Floyd Rinker of the High School staff. There will be a stop-over in Washington and the group will be greeted by Senator Leverett Saltonstall and Senator Millard Tydings of Maryland. While in Maryland the Newton students will be feted at a reception in the Governor's Mansion.

Those who have participated in the exchange program have spent the school years in workshop studies and in projects which have enabled them to earn their expenses in this enterprise. Last year, Wyandotte, Mich., was host to a workshop group from Newton and the pupils of the high school there were later guests of the Newton group here.

The Maryland group will arrive in Newton May 5, and will likewise have the opportunity of studying this community, as the Newton group is doing in Frederick, Md., this week.

Beverly E. Milchen Named Winner of Newton League of Women Voters Essay Contest

Miss Beverly E. Milchen, at Newton High School, has been chosen winner of the twenty-five dollar prize in the essay contest sponsored by the League of Women Voters of Newton, purpose of which was to stimulate greater interest among students in the United Nations and its functions. The title of Miss Milchen's prize-winning essay is "The United Nations in Action."

Prize money was awarded with the understanding that it would probably be used by the winner for a trip to Lake Success to see the United Nations headquarters, and to listen to some of the debates. Because this new project had to be fitted into a very busy high school schedule, it was impossible to complete arrangements in time for Spring vacation, as had been hoped. But Miss Milchen looks forward to the trip soon after vacation.

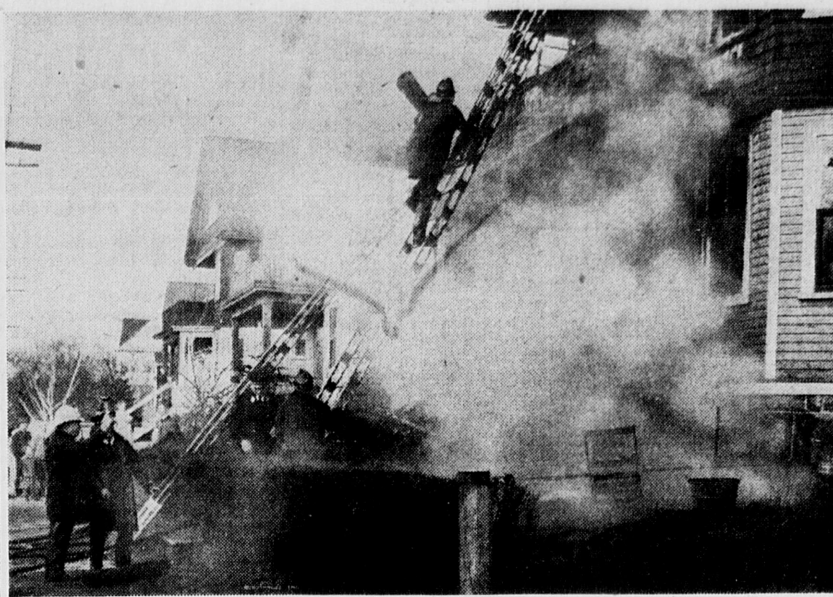

Arrangements for the contest were worked out by Mrs. James H. Lewis, chairman of the International Relations Committee, and Mr. Charles L. Peltier, head of the Social Studies department of Newton High School. Since no text books are available on the subject of the United Nations, the League furnished U. N. kits for study and reference. The essays, which were written spontaneously during a 50-minute class period, with no previous knowledge before that time that they were of a competitive nature, were judged by Mrs. Lewis, representing the League; Mr. Peltier, and Mr. Harold B. Gores, Superintendent of Newton Schools.

The essay written by Miss Beverly Milchen, of 64 Athelstane road, Newton Centre, was unanimously chosen by the judges as best organized and most nearly complete in covering the basic facts about the United Nations.

Anti-Measles Serum Being Used Extensively Here To Combat Expected Epidemic

Immune serum globulin, the anti-measles serum derived from human blood, was supplied by the American Red Cross to 283 people affected by measles in 1949 in Newton, it was revealed here this week by Dr. Ernest M. Morris, Director of the Health Department.

Dr. Morris announced that many vials of the serum which helps to prevent and modify the most common of all childhood diseases were provided without charge to physicians of Newton through the state health department by the Red Cross last year to meet existing needs.

At the present time the serum is being used extensively by Newton doctors because it is an epidemic year which usually occurs about every third year. So far this year Newton has had the following number of cases: January, 48 cases; February, 181 cases; March, 341 cases and up to April 14, 148 cases have been reported. Newton is not expected to reach the peak number of cases until May after which time it will rapidly decline.

Given to children within four or five days after exposure to measles, Dr. Morris said, the serum usually spares the child serious complications such as pneumonia, encephalitis, heart impairment or middle ear infection. Where it is important to prevent a very young child or an invalid from having measles at all, larger doses of immune serum are given.

Rheumatic Fever Questionnaires to Be Sent to Homes

Monday, 15,000 rheumatic fever questionnaires will be carried into Newton homes by public and parochial school children from the first through the ninth grades, Dr. Ernest M. Morris, Director of Public Health has announced.

The survey, being conducted by the Newton Health Department in cooperation with physicians of Newton will attempt to learn the number of families in which either parents or children have had rheumatic fever. The information will be used to help these families learn more about the prevention of rheumatic fever and rheumatic heart disease.

"Rheumatic fever is recognized as one of the most serious childhood diseases," Dr. Morris said. "Its seriousness lies in the fact that permanent heart damage often results, particularly if there are repeated attacks of the disease. Today there is good evidence that rheumatic fever and rheumatic heart disease can be prevented through proper use of penicillin. Since rheumatic fever tends to run in families, the health department is anxious that these families can take advantage of the newer methods of rheumatic fever prevention."

Comm'nity Chorus Holds Prominent Place in Newton

With the slogan, "You Live in Newton, Now Sing in Newton!" the Community Chorus, of the Newtons was founded in 1946 by a group of civic-minded men and women who liked to sing and were interested in forming a mixed chorus for the presentation of good choral music. Since then the Community Chorus has occupied a prominent place in the music life of Newton and has presented two concerts each year, at Christmas and in the spring, besides singing at various other community affairs.

Since its organization, the Community Chorus has been sponsored by and had the co-operation of the Recreation Department of the City of Newton. C. Evan Johnson, Recreation Commissioner, is a warm supporter of the chorus and is a member of its Board of Directors.

During the first three years the chorus was under the capable direction of Ralph I. Schoonmaker. This year the chorus is being conducted by James H. Remley, supervisor of music in the Newton Public Schools. Under Mr. Remley's direction the Community Chorus will present its Fourth Annual Spring Concert at the Newton High School auditorium Friday, May 12 at 8:15 p. m. Warns Parents on Prevalence of Whooping Cough

As whooping cough soared to its highest March peak since 1945, the state department of public health has warned parents to have all unprotected children inoculated immediately against the disease.

Dr. Roy F. Feemster, director of the division of communicable diseases, revealed that a total of 776 cases was reported last month. "This is the third successive month," he said, "that the disease has risen beyond the normal seven-year median."

"As most fatalities from whooping cough occur in victims under two years of age," he pointed out, "it is most important that infants should be protected from this disease as soon as possible after they reach three months of age."

Re-enforcing or "booster" doses may be necessary within a year and when the baby reaches its second or third birthday.

Miss Barbara Jean Earley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Earley, 115 Aspen avenue, Auburndale, became the bride of Mr. Edward Archibald Mason, of Rochester, New York, at the Corpus Christi Church, Auburndale, at 10 a. m., April 15. The double ring ceremony was performed by Rev. Thomas F. Murphy.

The church was tastefully decorated with lilies and anapdragon.

The bride wearing a gown of white satin and chantilly lace, with a veil of illusion and chantilly lace, was given in marriage by her father. She carried a white orchid on missal.

Her sister, Miss Katherine V. Earley, wearing blue lace and net, with picture hat to match and carrying an old fashioned bouquet, was her maid of honor.

Her bridesmaids were Mrs. Monica McConville of Rochester, New York, sister of the groom, Miss Marie Canniff of Somerville, Mass., cousin of the bride, and Miss Marie Kane of Newton Centre.

The groom, a graduate of Regis College, Weston, Mass. The groom who is now assistant professor of chemical engineering at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, is a graduate of the college and also of the University of Rochester.

Following a reception at the Hotel Continental, Cambridge, Mass., Mr. and Mrs. Mason left for a wedding trip in the south. Upon their return they will reside in Boston.

Their colorful gowns of yellow, pink and green, with matching picture hats, were of lace and net. They carried old fashioned bouquets.

The bride's mother chose a grey crepe gown with yellow hat and corsage of yellow orchids. The groom's mother wore an aqua gown with pink hat and a corsage of pink camellias.

Mr. Donald McConville, Rochester, New York, brother-in-law of the groom was the best man.

The ushers were Charles V. Earley and Robert F. Earley, brothers of the bride, Robert Kanka, Rochester, New York and David A. Trageser, Lackawanna, New York.

Spring Dance at Hunnewell Club Is Greatly Enjoyed

Lou Haffermehl and his orchestra kept every one on his toes at the Hunnewell Club's Spring Dance, last Friday night.

Members who had apparently forgotten all about the terpsichorean art were encouraged to venture onto the floor and, what's more, they liked it.

Individual tables, each one softly lighted with its own lamp, circled Stanley Hall, making a most attractive setting and providing a convenient place for enjoying the refreshments; but it was one of those happy occasions when every one preferred to dance.

Among the guests were Mr. and Mrs. Harold Bates, Mr. and Mrs. F. Earle Conn, Mr. and Mrs. Crawford A. Glen, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew T. Hanson, Mr. and Mrs. Henry L. Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin F. Louis, Mr. and Mrs. Charles T. Malton, Mr. and Mrs. Ted H. Oakley, Mr. and Mrs. Stephen E. Owens, Mr. and Mrs. Everett F. Pershore, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas E. Shepherd, Dr. and Mrs. George K. Zipp. (It has just been announced that Dr. Zipp, University Lecturer at Harvard, has been awarded a Guggenheim fellowship.)

All who attended joined in commending enthusiastically the work of the committee in charge: Mr. and Mrs. William J. Payne, Mr. and Mrs. Henry C. Jones, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Earl C. Mitchell, Mr. and Mrs. Alban F. Rosene, Mr. and Mrs. Mason H. Stone, Jr.

This Must Not Happen

The fate of literally thousands can hinge upon what we free Americans do in the next ten days, for those ten days comprise the final period of the American Cancer Society's drive for funds with which it seeks to intensify the battle to conquer cancer.

These ten days are vitally important to every citizen because they will be decisive to the drive, making the difference between success or failure, just as battles themselves are won or lost in the final hours.

The goal in Massachusetts is $530,166. This amount represents only a fraction of cancer's total cost to the nation, excluding the unmeasurable cost in human suffering.

That is why there can be no failure; why the drive must be a success. Indeed, research one day in the not too distant future will undoubtedly achieve the complete conquest of cancer.

There is little more saddening than the words, "too little—too late."

This must not happen. So give, strike back at cancer, if you have not done so already.

It's Difficult But It's Possible

It is an established fact that on the whole, people are courteous. Yet it is also a fact that many of these same courteous individuals, once behind the wheel of their automobile, suddenly forget all semblance of courtesy and the rights of others.

In a statement on this subject, Chief Philip Purcell of the Newton Police Department said, "Courtesy while driving on the highways of our Commonwealth is probably the most important single factor in accident prevention today, and he has well added that 'every licensed driver should realize that about seventy-five percent of all operators involved in fatal crashes were guilty of some form of highway discourtesy.' This should be a stern reminder that perhaps we, as well as you, may at times exhibit a discourtesy on the road of which we would hardly believe ourselves capable.

There is little doubt that some drivers, by their actions, are enough to drive even the most courteous of people to discourteous acts. But just as two wrongs do not make a right, neither do two discourteous acts make a courteous one.

Let us all, with the good weather now ahead and the highways congested with traffic, resolve to keep our heads and our manners even when less intelligent and less courteous drivers, ignore them.

If we all do that, we might help to keep the accident toll to a minimum. At least we will be doing our part to promote safety on the roads.

Marsh Marigold

You have to get your feet wet to find the biggest and earliest marsh marigolds. They grow in the swamps and bogs, by preference, though they are occasionally found in stream margins. But they are worth a little wetting, for they are the purest gold that early spring provides, breathtaking golden yellow.

The first of them are beginning to open bud now, with flowers like giant buttercups. The resemblance is no accident, for the swamp marigold belongs to the same family as the buttercup of the meadow. The Latin name, Caltha palustris, means marsh-cup. However, there is little resemblance between the foliage of the two plants. The marsh marigold leaves are shaped like big violet leaves.

Some call them cowslips, for no understandable reason. The true cowslip belongs to the primrose family and has no resemblance whatever to the marsh marigold. And, of all the flowers of spring, only the buttercup itself can rival the Marsh marigold in color. Its big waxy petal-like sepals are almost as big as a twenty-five-cent piece, however, and make the buttercup look like a dwarf in comparison.

The place to find them is where the giant marsh violets grow, preferably where running water warms their roots. The swamp with a slow flow is an ideal place, for the water flows without much current. There the marsh marigolds will grow in great clumps, on the oozy margins and even in the shallow water itself. There they bloom with a splash of color that make late April a heart's delight even in a chilly season. And before they are gone, the big violets will begin to carpet the bogland with purple.

(Reprinted from N. Y. Times)

The late Wendell Willkie once said: "None but the productive can be strong, and none but the strong can be free."

Could Winston Churchill have been thinking of the dear old U. S. A. when he said: "What we need is fewer controls throughout the country and more control at the head of the government."

Mind your own business and in time you'll have a business of your own to mind, is a pretty good adage,—particularly adaptable to those who let their tongues wag.

Current Comments

Some of our political seers have figured it out that the Republican candidates will benefit next November from the fact that the issue of adopting a flat rate for compulsory automobile insurance will probably be on the ballot.

The way they reason it is that the automobile-owners in the small towns, which are predominantly Republican in their political sympathies, will stream to the polling places in order to escape a boost in the fee they must pay to insure their cars.

Consequently, they conclude, there will be a heavy vote in the G.O.P. strongholds, and the Republican nominees will be the beneficiaries.

That is very sound logic—if you assume that there will not be a like outpouring in the cities on the part of Democratic car-owners who either: a) would like to pay less insurance; or b) would dislike to pay more.

It may be that we are not very sharp this week because we can't see that the interest engendered by the automobile insurance question is going to be much of a boon to either the Democrats or Republicans.

In the first place, it will not be a Republican-Democratic issue. Members of both political parties will be voting on both sides of the question, depending upon how it hits their particular pocketbooks.

It has been estimated that if all passenger car owners in Massachusetts paid the same flat rate insurance, the charge would be somewhere in the vicinity of $30.

That will simplify matters pretty much to a dollar and cents proposition. The man who now pays substantially more than $30 will be enthusiastically in favor of the referendum. The one who now pays $18.80 will be vigorously opposed to it, and those who already pay about $30 won't get too excited about it one way or the other.

The greatest feeling over the question will be aroused in such cities as Boston, Chelsea and Revere, where the rate is now extremely high, and in the small outlying towns where the compulsory insurance charge is lowest.

But it's not easy to see how it would help one party any more than it does the other. There are Republican automobile-owners in Boston, Revere and Chelsea who would like very much to pay a lower rate, and there are Democratic motorists in the tiny towns who would object very strenuously to paying any more than they now do.

Before the campaign is over someone may try to show that more Republicans than Democrats own automobiles, or vice versa, but that will be mostly a matter of the political sages trying to convince themselves.

It's quite likely that the automobile insurance referendum will increase the size of the turnout for next November's election. Some persons who ordinarily don't bother to vote in anything less than a Presidential contest may go to the polls to try to save themselves a few dollars on their insurance bills.

However, it will be a reflection of sentiment that will cut across party lines, and in some communities the vote should be just about unanimous one way or the other.

The referendum will be the subject of lively discussion. But when it's all over there just won't be any argument that will convince any automobile-owner that it would be a bad thing for his insurance bill to be slashed from $60 to $30 or that he would enjoy a boost from $18.80 to $30.

One thing the statistics do indicate is that there are more people who pay under $30 than there are who pay over that amount, which may very well spell defeat of the referendum.

Patrick McCusker was arrested for disturbing the peace in Glasgow, Scotland, after he persisted in raising his hat to women waiting for a street car. It wasn't Patrick's politeness that got him into trouble. It was that he was under his hat. It seems that he had two white mice perched on top of his head.

Out in Denver, Colo., Jack Gaskie, a reported for the Rocky Mountain News, posed as an unemployed furniture salesman to do a story on the U. S. Employment Service. After he had taken eight hours of tests and interviews, he was advised to try to get into newspaper work.

Community Council Annual Meeting to Be Devoted to Heart Program

The annual dinner meeting of the Newton Community Council, scheduled for next Thursday evening at the Newton Y.M.C.A., is to be devoted to a discussion of the Newton Community Heart Program. Following the recent selection of Newton as the first city to undertake a community-wide heart program, the Governing Board of the Newton Community Council voted to cooperate with the Newton Health Department in planning a city-wide screening for the detection of possible heart disorders.

Charles O. Richter, chairman of the Newton Community Council, will serve as coordinator for the various activities planned for the annual meeting. Highlights of the meeting are to include a panel of physicians who will discuss various phases of the nature and prevention of heart disease. Panel participants will be Dr. Ernest M. Morris, director of the Newton Health Department; Dr. Walter O. Blanchard, chairman of the Heart Screening Committee of the Newton Medical Club; and Dr. Egon Kattwinkel, head of the Heart Committee of the Newton Medical Club.

A short dramatization of the actual screening procedure to be employed later throughout the city is to be presented under the direction of Miss Ruth Brooks, health educator of the Newton Tuberculosis and Health Association. Cast members will include Alfred P. Hartshorn, Mrs. Robert W. Moore, Jr., Mrs. Alex Miller, and Mrs. Louis Billings.

A novelty feature on the subject of weight control is to be conducted by the Newton Nutrition Center. This phase of the meeting will be conducted by Miss Marjorie Cantoni of the Nutrition Center and Miss Pat Thorenson of the Heart Demonstration Program, assisted by Miss Elizabeth Porter, Mrs. Ruth Taylor, Miss Mabel Turner, and Mrs. John W. Young.

A delegate discussion period will provide all representatives with an opportunity to determine the role that their particular organization may play throughout the period of the heart screening program. It is anticipated that the forthcoming heart program will represent an outstanding health service to all of Newton and that every city organization will lend full support to the Community Council and to the Newton Health Department.

Protestant Women Uniting For World Wide Service

Dr. Chester M. Jones, noted gastro-enterologist residing in West Newton, was one of a small group of specialists chosen by the Unitarian Service Committee to study health conditions in the devastated countries of Europe during the summers of 1947 and 1948. He was much impressed by the constructive service rendered by people who knew no bonds of race or creed, only those of sharing to relieve suffering and want.

Expressing his belief as to the kind of aid which will be most effective in establishing right human relations among all peoples, Dr. Jones has written to the Newton chairman of the Ecumenical Register:

"In this time of universal uncertainties as to moral, ethical and physical values it is indeed a fact of great moment that the Protestant women of this nation have engaged themselves to an active interest in the pressing problems of today. Never before has there existed so great a necessity for a devoted and informed study of the needs of human beings of all races, creeds and conditions. A positive and aggressive Christianity free of dogma and cant, and concerned primarily with the full recognition of individual human dignity and right, can best meet the challenge of present events. This type of Christianity will, without question, gain strength and impetus from the devotion and interest inherent in a movement such as that proposed by the United Council of Church Women."

It is important in this connection to realize that women in foreign lands not only need and appreciate every bit of material aid which comes to them from this country. They also are asking "What are you American Christian women thinking and doing about the problems of freedom and justice and peace?" This question deserves an answer which will give courage and faith. Newton women are given the opportunity to join with other women throughout the country to provide a voice strong enough to give the answer.

Annual Spring Garden Tour Of Newton Tribute Foundation To Be Held May 13, 14 and 15

At a recent meeting of the officers and directors of the Newton Tribute Foundation, committees were formed to promote the annual spring All-Newton garden tour. The dates have been set for May 13, 14, 15 with hour from 1:00 p.m. to 5 p.m. on all three days.

The publicity committee consists of Dr. Franklin Lowry, Dr. William MacDonald, Mr. C. Russell Mason, Mrs. Clifford Parcher, and Mrs. Ernest Rallsback. Those in charge of events are: Mrs. George Armstrong, Mrs. Fletcher Eades, Mrs. Neil Leonard, and Mrs. D. Allen Smith. Filing is in charge of Mrs. Allen Bralley, Mrs. Earl Ham, Mrs. Elizabeth Newton, and Mrs. Sidney Williamson. Co-chairman of ticket takers are Mrs. Henry S. C. Cummings and Mrs. Ralph Keyes, while those who serve under them are Mrs. B. Walter Godsoe, Miss Beatrice Tower and Mrs. Frank A. Wightman. Markers are in charge of Mr. Louis F. Bachrach, Mrs. Douglas Francis, Mr. and Mrs. John C. Jones, Mrs. Joe Gerriy, Mr. Richard Moerschner, and Mr. Bradford Williams. Mr. Orville Clapper, Mr. Joseph Jamieson and Mr. Warren Oliver have charge of Permanent Improvement, while the Nominating committee includes Mr. Donald B. Conant, Mrs. Ward I. Cornell and Mrs. Howard Thomas.

The group of gardens is entirely different this year, although the same pattern of choosing a few very small gardens, several medium sized yards where a gardener once or twice a week is employed, and one or two interesting estate-gardens has been followed as usual. In fact, in Auburndale we have an example of all three kinds of gardens.

Mrs. Lucia E. Farrington, whose estate comprises a whole small hill between Vista and Hawthorne avenues has opened their grounds on this year. The driveway is flanked by forsythia, and other lovely deciduous plantings as well as large old stands of broad-leaved evergreens such as rhododendrons, laurel, leucothoe, andromeda, etc. At the top of the hill, where it can be enjoyed through the dining room windows, is an informal spring garden where the gay yellows and whites of early and late narcissus run riot, where hyacinths and their blues and pinks and reds, where the little grape hyacinths give accents of blue, and azaleas flame among the larger growths.

Almost directly across the street is the beautifully kept yard of Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Grover of 38 Vista Avenue. The shady driveway is carpeted with pachysandra and other greenery. A velvety lawn leads to an informally formal garden at the rear beside the garage. Here wisteria and a lush pink dogwood give a touch of the oriental. Cerastium, sedum and other sprawling rock garden plants spill over the side-walls of the perennial border, which is planted to many of the more unusual varieties of perennials and spring bulbs. Notice some of the little species tulips and early iris.

Easily accessible to these two Auburndale gardens is the lovely small garden of Mr. and Mrs. C. Azel Collins of 28 Central street. The front yard planting is attractively and tastefully done with the lesser-known broad-leaved evergreens such as leucothoe and Japanese andromeda mingled with Canadian yews and other needed evergreens. There is unusual Chinese dogwood, which blooms a month after our native dogwood, and some beautiful examples of cotoneaster, with their angled branches of profuse flowers. A delightful terrace at the rear next to the house gives ample opportunity to enjoy the open vista to the Lasell golf course beyond the simple rustic fence planted with espaliered vines. Around a corner of the terrace so it won't interfere with the view is the perennial border planted to the varieties of dianthus, primula, Chinese delphinium, fall anemones and sweet-smelling violets which bloom throughout the summer.

Watch for descriptions of other gardens to be displayed on the All-Newton Garden Tour which is being sponsored by the Newton Tribute Foundation. This is an organization established soon after the war for the worthy desire of beautifying certain sections of Newton as a tribute to men and women who served during the war. The most elaborate planting so far is the one on both sides of Walnut street, at the bus stop on Commonwealth avenue. As well as containing many native laurel bushes, interspersed with hemlocks (laurels and hemlocks making up the theme for these plantings) shrubs and bushes established in the City Hall landscaping are repeated. Thus there are a number of flowering crabapples, colorful euonymus and kerrias.

At Norumbega Park the planting has been entirely taken care of by Mr. Gill, owner of the park, who is much interested in the whole project. Here are blueberry bushes, dogwood and other shrubs indigenous to this area as well as the laurel and hemlock. Money made from the garden tour will go toward upkeep and perfection of the three plantings already under way and as part of a backlog toward future additional plantings.

Newton Couples' Horse Awarded Championship

Congratulations will be in order for the William H. Coburns today when they return from Gotham to 9 Old Orchard road, Newton. Their prize-winning chestnut saddlebred won a reserve championship last Saturday evening in the three-gaited class at the Squadron A Horse Show in New York City, and, living up to his past performances won ribbons in each of the four sessions on Friday and Saturday.

As this was the five-year-old's first New York show the approval which the spirited horse received insures his being a contender in the Madison Square Garden next spring.

One of Mrs. Coburn's hobbies is the breeding and raising of saddlehorses in the Blue Grass region, and showing them in the East. Her family live in Danville, Ky.

To Give Voice Recital At Lasell Junior College

Miss Gloria Silvia, mezzo-soprano, will give a voice recital in Winslow Hall at Lasell Junior College in Auburndale, tonight (Thursday). Her accompanist will be Miss Emily Birdsall, a classmate at Connecticut College for Women, where Miss Silvia is in her senior year.

A graduate of Lasell in the class of 1947, Miss Silvia is a talented pianist, musician and artist. While at Lasell she sang in the college's production of Humperdinck's "Hansel and Gretel." As a part of her comprehensive examination at Connecticut, she recently gave a concert. Her list of musical activities at that college has included an important role in "Take Another Look," the Pope-Nicholson opera, and the role of Aeneas in Purcell's "Dido and Aeneas." She has done solo work in the chapel both in voice and organ. She is a Music Club officer and choir member.

Miss Silvia taught music and crafts at Interlaken Camp in Croydon, New Hampshire several summers ago, and last summer she studied in Massachusetts for a period of intensive voice training.

Birth Announcement

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph C. Rauscher (Ruth Jenks) of Tuckahoe, N. Y., are receiving congratulations on the birth of a daughter, Joanne, Saturday, April 15. Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Wesseldine of New York, and Mr. and Mrs. D. Sidney Perley of Ipswich, Mass.

Our Lady's Walloped in First League Game, 11-3

A meager four hits, while committing six errors, added up to defeat for Our Lady's baseball team last Sunday afternoon, dropping their first Catholic League Division 2 game to St. John's of Cambridge, 11-3 at the Rindge Tech Field.

The Cantabs had a smooth operator on the mound in the person of Robert Trant, who remained for nine innings, and couldn't be solved by local batters, except for third sacker Kevin Burns, who collected two hits, George Pettee and Chuck Enos, each getting one apiece. Pettee's hit was a long double, coming in the sixth inning and was credited with driving in a run.

St. John's ran wild in the face of bad misplays on the part of Coach Jim Sullivan's lads, sending across one in the second, two in the third, four in the fourth, and wrapping things up in the sixth by scoring three more.

Joe MacDonnell started for Sullivan, but proved to be a soft touch for the Saints, leaving the ball game in the seventh. Jim Murphy finished for Our Lady's, allowing no further gains, and gave a capable show in the short period that he hurried.

On the minus end of a 7-0 score, O. L. rallied for two runs in the sixth when Bill Cronin took first on a walk, and scored when catcher Pettee laced a long double to deep left. Burns then singled and Pettee tallied on a fielder's choice. Unable to keep the fire going, the Purple and Gold settled for one last in the ninth, when first sacker Bill McCarthy reached on an error, and registered later on a wild pitch by hurler Trant to McGarry.

Pitcher Robert Trant came in for some batting honors, lacing out two hits, one a double, while accounting for two RBI's. Mark Tremblay led the Saints in the hitting department with a trio. Jim Shannon and Bob Dwyer hit safely for two apiece.

Riflemen of Malden High defeated the Newton team in a match at Malden, last week. Only the five highest scorers on each team were counted; thus Newton earned 715 points, compared with Malden's 882. High scorers for Newton were: John Kraemer, 160; John Cannon, 157; George Crosby, 138; and Carol Sundstrom, 133. Tied for fifth place were Eddie Maguire and Dick Thompson, with 127 points apiece. Superb Two-Hit Pitching Gives Newton Easy Win

Behind the superb two-hit combination pitching of Gib Studley and John Thomas, the Newton High School Tigers walloped a weak Cambridge Latin nine 7-1 at Dickinson Tuesday. Buster Keyho and Barky Boole supplied the batting power for the victorious Newton club. Buster tripled in the first and homered over the centerfielder's head as lead-off batter in the fifth, while Barky singled in the second and tripled in the seventh. This victory is the second in as many starts for Coach Howard Ferguson's inexperienced club.

Newton drew first blood in the initial frame. After Freddy Keith had doubled, Buster Keyho, hard-hitting short stop, walloped a long drive over the center fielder's head. After Keith scored easily, however, Buster was called out when he attempted to stretch the drive into a four bagger.

In the second after Barky Boole singled and Joe Landry walked, lanky Al Phinney lined a sharp single to center scoring Boole. Successive passes to Gib Studley and Ricky Rycroft forced in Landry with the second run of the inning and provided Studley with a three run cushion on which to work. Gib pitched hitless ball for six innings except for Johnny Murphy's single to left in the top half of the fourth.

The next Tiger run came in the fourth as a result of Keyho's long home run. The lone Cambridge tally came in the sixth against Studley as a result of two free passes, a perfectly executed double steal and a slow roller to Keyho at short.

Newton came roaring back in the seventh to tally twice to lead 6-1. Boole tripled as lead off batter and remained at the hot corner as Tuck Sullivan walked. A double steal failed when Sullivan was nipped at second but Boole scored on the play. Joe Landry kept the rally alive by walking, stealing second and taking third on a wild pitch. Co-captain John Thomas helped his own cause by scoring Landry with a slow roller to short.

In the ninth the Tigers led the game when Freddy Danten and Buster Keyho, with the help of a bad throw, worked a double steal to tally the last run of the game.

and the residents of each street will entertain the next of kin of the war hero for whom the paths and streets were named. Senator Leverett Saltonstall will be the principal speaker. Others who will address the gathering are Franklin Flasher, president of the Oak Hill Park Association; Carl C. Mullen, chairman of the Newton Veterans' Housing Department; Mayor Theodore R. Lockwood and a representative of the State Housing Board.

Following this portion of the program a single shot will be fired from a cannon and the sign posts bearing the name of the war dead will be unveiled. The Community Chorus and the Newton High School band will then offer a program. A song, written by a resident of the Park for the dedication, will be sung.

More than 9400 men and women left Newton to join the armed forces. Over 200 didn't return. The names of 33 were chosen impartially and the roads and paths now bear these names in their honor. Mrs. Howard C. Thomas, arranging for the 33 Gold Star parents, honored guests for the dedication, told how the names were selected and emphasized the fairness of the method.

William D. Baxter said that it had been suggested that the new fire station be dedicated the same day. Chairman Edwards asked Chief John E. Corcoran of the Fire Department to arrange this portion of the ceremony. J. Edward Theriault then suggested that Boy or Girl Scout troops in the development act as guides for the visitors that day.

Arthur Swett, vice chairman for the dedication, reported that the United Veterans' Organization of Newton was cooperating unanimously with the committee. Chairman William J. Maloney of the UVO revealed that his organization would provide the flags for individual home decoration that day.

In conclusion chairman Edwards noted the work already accomplished but stated that "the important job starts now." 21st is vital to the success of the dedication.

Edwards recently announced that General Daniel Needham would be Chief Marshal for the day. The full program will be announced later.

On a state-wide level, Dr. Morris pointed out, the Red Cross reported it had distributed a great number of vials of anti-measles serum to health officers during the 1949 fiscal year. Before the Red Cross began to distribute immune serum globulin in 1944, Dr. Morris said, the death rate from measles was estimated by the United States Public Health Service at one in every 328 cases. Two years later, the death rate had been almost cut in half. It has continued to decline ever since.

The serum, which can be obtained by physicians without charge from the County Health Office, is processed from war-

All Eating And Drinking Places Pass Requirements

Ratings of eating and drinking places in Newton were announced by the Health Department last week. These ratings revealed that while 15 percent of the tests made showed bacterial counts, all of the establishments inspected passed the requirements.

Three thousand twenty-nine tests were made last year and 2,581 were found to be under the maximum of 100 bacteria per utensil.

Smears were taken monthly from glasses, cups, forks and spoons in all establishments in the city to determine the efficiency of dishwashing methods. "These utensils were chosen because they are mouthed by customers and they can be a direct path for the transmission of communicable diseases," Chief Sanitary Inspector Harlan W. Kingsbury stated.

The result of these tests were made public in the Health Department bulletin, "Your Health." The report continued that "a total of 3029 such tests were made in the Health Department Laboratory during 1949, and of these, 2581 were within the maximum of 100 bacteria per utensil allowable by Newton regulations. This gave an 85 percent compliance for the year. All violations were followed up to correct the faulty dishwashing procedures."

Award & Newspaper Talk Features Meeting Of School Journalism Class

By JOANNE HOLLAND

An award for an article published last fall about the symptoms, methods of detection, and possible cures of tuberculosis, was presented to the Newtonite, the Newton High school paper, by Dr. Donald E. Bowen, President of the Newton Chapter of the National Tuberculosis Association. The presentation was made at a party in the High School Social Room last week. At the party were Dr. Bowen; his secretary, Miss Ruth Brooks, John W. Fielding, editor of The Newton Graphic, Raymond A. Green, school principal; Harry Walen, journalism teacher; and the editors and staff of the Newtonite.

Anne Mazick, staff member who wrote the article, received the award in behalf of the paper. Anne is a junior and a member of the National Honor Society.

Dr. Bowen explained that contests for articles on this subject are held each year by the National Tuberculosis Association. This year, these awards were presented to over three hundred high schools in thirty-nine states plus the District of Columbia and Hawaii. The doctor also told a little about the organization of the Association.

Following this, Mr. Fielding spoke. His topic was "The Community Newspaper." The fact that the weekly newspaper is very necessary to a community, was his main theme. He also pointed out some of the problems of this type of newspaper, namely, keeping the news fresh though it may not have happened yesterday, keeping the news restricted to the community it is written for, and keeping the people informed about the local government. A question period followed. Most of the questions pertained to political policies of newspapers and to the Graphic's policy of not printing crime news.

The refreshments which were served were made by members of the Newtonite staff. They included doughnuts, cookies, cakes, brownies, and punch.

Aldermen Vote 15 To 6 for Widening Of Washington St.

Monday night at its meeting the board of aldermen, despite a strong plea by Chairman Kenneth E. Prior of the Public Works Committee that the project be abandoned, voted 15 to 6 to widen Washington street, from the railroad bridge to Auburn street, West Newton. The plan had been opposed by the abutters on both sides of the street, including St. Bernard's Church.

Alderman Paul S. Rich reported for the 4 to 3 majority in the Public Works Committee and asserted that the Washington street widening is in the best interests of the city and progress.

Voting for the widening were: Aldermen Angevine, Anthony, Beale, Buse, Casady, Davis, Fahey, Hampton, Hoyt, Mattson, Merrill, Middendorf, Rich, Wood and President Bauckman. Opposing the project were Aldermen Anderson, Cannon, Prior, Scipione, TenBroeck and Terkelson.

Re-drafted Bill Would Pour Large Quantities of Water Into River to Stop Pollution

After conferences with local city officials and officials of the State and Metropolitan District Commission, Senator Richard H. Lee submitted a re-draft of a bill in the Legislature which would, if passed, pour large quantities of reservoir water into the Charles River to combat pollution.

The proposed plan would permit pouring water from the Quabbin Reservoir into the Charles River at Echo Bridge, Upper Falls, in quantities of 10,000 barrels at a time. This work would be done by the M.D.C., and the cost would be shared by cities and towns touching the Charles River, according to the proportion of the shore lines.

Originally the bill called for the payment of $5 a million gallons of water to the M.D.C., but under the re-draft this amount would be increased to $10.

The plan is designed to produce a faster and cleaner flow of water in the river and it is believed such an undertaking would reduce pollution as the present lack of a current does not have sufficient force to carry off waste matter. It would also make the water safe for bathing as well as for growing fish.

Pollution of the water in the Charles River has been due to the number of industries located on its banks and which have been using it as a spillway for their waste. Speeding up of the current of the river would do much, it is contended, to correct this situation.

Red Cross Fund Campaign Goes Over the Top

The 1950 Red Cross Fund Campaign has gone over the top, reaching 103% of its quota in Newton, this week, according to Douglass B. Francis, Campaign Chairman. Mr. Francis declared, in making this announcement that the success of this year's drive is due to the people of Newton and the 1500 fund campaign workers who continued the drive an extra week until the quota was reached. "Our confidence that the people of Newton want the continuance of the fine services offered by its chapter has been amply justified," he stated.

Boston To Newtonville In 15 Minutes On New Trains; Start Monday

For the first time on any railroad, the New York Central will inaugurate in regular service Monday the newest development in transportation progress, high-speed, self-propelled rail diesel passenger cars, on a 98-mile stretch of its affiliated Boston & Albany Railroad between Boston and Springfield, with stops at Newtonville.

To Offer 2-Year Merchandising Course Here

A new two-year course in Merchandising is to be offered in the Newton Junior College starting next September. It has been announced by C. Elwood Drake, director of the college. Young men and women will make a detailed study of the field of retailing in preparation for jobs in local and Greater Boston stores.

The Newton Chamber of Commerce has indicated that there are approximately 630 retail and 300 service establishments in the city of Newton alone, and that these stores offer one of the largest opportunities for the employment of young people. It is anticipated that the establishment of new retail outlets on the Worcester Turnpike by such organizations as Franklin Simon of New York, S. S. Pierce Company, Filenes, R. H. Stearns, and the Star Market Company, will provide many positions for personnel properly trained in merchandising and retailing. Merchandising students in the first year are to study retail store (Continued on Page 2)

The first two of these new streamlined, all-stainless steel "Beeliners," as the Central calls them, have just been delivered by the Budd Company of Philadelphia. Each can transport as many as 89 passengers in air-conditioned comfort at speeds up to 83 miles an hour. Constructed at a cost of approximately $141,500 each, including automatic train control safety devices, they feature smoothness, comfort, high acceleration and quick stops.

On their regular runs, they will serve Newtonville and Trinity Place-Huntington avenue in the Boston area. The rail diesel cars' ability to start and stop quickly will enable them to cover their 98-mile runs each way between Boston and Springfield in only two hours, including the five intermediate stops.

The Monday through Saturday daylight time schedule for the Beeliners, augmenting present train service, between Boston and Newtonville, is as follows:

Leave Boston	Arrive Newtonville
9:00 a.m.	9:15 a.m.
10:30 a.m.	10:45 a.m.

Easter Seal Sale Total Now 70 % Of Quota Sought

Newton contributions to the annual Easter Seal Campaign have risen to 70 per cent of its quota as a result of post-campaign contributions received by the Bay State Society for the Crippled and Handicapped, Inc., it was announced today.

Though the campaign originally had been scheduled to end Easter Sunday, the books are being kept open for late contributions because the statewide goal of $275,000 still lacks $85,000.

Arthur L. Lewis, 1950 campaign chairman, urges all who have not already given, to send in their contributions immediately, addressed to the Bay State Society, 30 Highland street, Worcester.

Automobiles Must Have Inspection Stickers by May 1

The law requires that all Massachusetts registered motor vehicles that have been operated in the Commonwealth at any time during the month of April be inspected by midnight April 30 and display an inspection sticker on the windshield.

The Registry of Motor Vehicles, Rudolph F. King has ordered all motor vehicle inspectors out on the highways on May 1 for the purpose of halting Massachusetts motor vehicles not bearing a 1950 spring inspection sticker. The Registrar has also requested the co-operation of the police—State, Metropolitan District, and community—in enforcing this law.

House Bill 885 Giving Back To Local Authorities Control Of Construction Passes House

REP. GEO. E. RAWSON

Representatives George E. Rawson and Howard Whitmore of Newton filed earlier in this session of the legislature, House Bill 885 to restore to cities and towns authority over the issuance of building permits.

Under the present statute if the State Board of Standards makes rules allowing certain types and materials of building construction and a registered professional engineer makes affidavit that those types and materials are adequate, the building commissioner of a city or town is obliged to issue a permit to build, even though they do not comply with the local building code.

House 885 provides that the rules of the Board of Standards are not binding on a city or town unless the Board of Aldermen of the city, or the vote of the town, accepts the act. It also strikes out the engineer's affidavit. The purpose is to restore home rule to Newton and every other city and town in this matter.

The Committee on Military Affairs and Public Safety wrote its own bill in place of House 885 but Representatives Rawson and Whitmore have substituted

Daylight Saving Time Goes Into Effect Sunday

Be sure to turn your timepieces ahead one hour Saturday night before you retire. Daylight saving time goes into effect, officially, Sunday, April 30. But it will be well for you to set your watches and clocks ahead the one hour before you retire Saturday night so that you will be on correct time Sunday. And if you don't, don't say you haven't been warned.

Adults, generally, will welcome the additional hour of daylight but parents of young ones may not be quite so enthused as the problem of getting the youngsters to bed in daylight always poses a problem.

Decision Upholds Zoning Action of Board of Aldermen

A North street zoning compromise adopted about a year ago by the board of aldermen was upheld by a land court decision which denied the petition of several owners of land that the amendment to the zoning ordinance changing land from manufacturing to residential zones be declared invalid.

The land involved consists of about 14 acres on the Newton-Waltham-Waterdown line. Under the compromise plan the board of aldermen February 9, 1949 changed most of the land from manufacturing to residential and at the same time changed unzoned land on Farwell street to a manufacturing district.

Newton's second annual Auto Show which will be held at the Trade School this Friday and Saturday, is a fine example of city-wide cooperation between a group of leading business men and the school authorities. Each vehicle will carry signs directing people to the show and the procession will provide a preview of the indoor displays.

Highlands Post Office Open For Business in New Quarters At 63 Lincoln Street Monday

Newton Highlands branch post office will move to new quarters at 63 Lincoln street after the close of business this Saturday, according to an announcement by Postmaster Francis A. Crowley.

The present quarters, which contain only 1,190 square feet, have been overcrowded for several years. The new office will have an area of 3,270 square feet. The building has been entirely remodeled and an extension has been constructed in the rear.

An innovation in postal service will be the installation of a new bank type screen line or service counter which will be the first of this kind installed in the Boston Postal District. The building has an entirely new modern front and an up-to-date fluorescent lighting system, electric water coolers and rest room for the employees.

A loading platform of ample size has been installed at the rear and the additional space provided will permit the finer separation of outgoing parcel post mail which is received in large quantities, thus eliminating the necessity for re-handling at other points.

The new quarters will be open for business to the public next Monday morning.

W. N. Community Centre Rummage Sale Next Tuesday

Next Tuesday from 9:30 a. m. to 4 p. m., the Centre Building Association will hold a rummage sale in the basement of the Davis School, 492 Waltham street.

For months members of the Board of Directors of the West Newton Community Centre, Inc., a Newton Red Feather Service, have been busily collecting toys, books, clothing for everyone, furniture, and sporting goods, until many West Newton garages, attics, and even a summer house, are crammed with choice paragon which will be sold at this rummage sale. Mrs. Arthur F. Williams and Mrs. Edward B. Gray, co-chairman of the big event, anticipate a most successful day. Proceeds from the sale will go toward a building fund for a much needed new home for the Community Centre.

H. MARK STRONG, JR., of Newton is Executive Secretary of the Massachusetts Restaurant Association which is holding its 13th annual New England Restaurant Day luncheon and meeting tomorrow (Friday) at the Copley Plaza Hotel, Boston. Paul M. Herbert, also of Newton, president of the Restaurant Association, will preside.

and four tires for the Saturday finale, were contributed by the Dealer's Association, while the thirty-six smaller prizes were presented by the individual car and accessory agencies and jobbers. Each visitor, on entering the show will fill out a numbered slip and deposit it in a box to be opened at the close of the day.

In the listing of the Newton dealers in last week's papers, a former local Hudson company was erroneously named. The Newton dealer who will display the 1950 Hudson at this year's show is Ralph C. Wight (not Wright) & Company, Inc., whose new showroom is located on Washington street in West Newton. Another Newton dealer omitted in the previous listing is Boyes Motor Company, Inc., representing Dodge and Plymouth cars.

In addition to the main show, an attractive program of movies and mechanical displays is being completed for showing in the upstairs room of the Automobile Department. One of these will be a safety exhibit of the Registry of Motor Vehicles.

The public is cordially invited to come early or late this Friday and Saturday and be sure to sign the slip which may win a prize. Admission is free to Newton's second Annual Auto Show.

Arthur G. Heaney Named President of Oak Hill District Improvement Ass'n

Residents from Oak Hill gathered at the John W. Weeks Jr. High School Monday for their Fifteenth Annual Meeting, which was called to order by Malcolm Morse, President. There were members from each part of the Oak Hill District present and a number who were present at the first meeting held in April 1935 at the Charles River Country Club. They included Wendell K. K. Mick and Henry S. C. Cummings who were the first President and Secretary of the Association; Mr. and Mrs. Albert Hasenfus, Ralph W. King, Wendell R. Bauckman, now President of the Board of Aldermen of Newton, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest B. Freeman, and Mrs. Cedric S. Ramsdell.

The Association reported an active year in which it stood firm in the protection of zoning; initiated constructive steps to eliminate building of homesites that fail to conform to the Newton Building Code; found improvements in many of the roads in the District; and the occupancy of a fire station on the site of the old Oak Hill School, advocated by the Association for many years. Progress was reported in the improvement of the Oak Hill Playground, which requires surfacing with loam and planting to grass for the school needs in the immediate area of the School along Wheeler road. It was reported that funds had been appropriated to complete the work and that by Fall should be completed. The Spaulding School on Brookline street is expected to relieve the desperately congested situation at the Oak Hill School, which the City is planning to erect in the near future.

The subject that interested the members attending this meeting concerned the extension of the Saw Mill Parkway to Dedham street in the Oak Hill Park. The Oak Hill Park Association has already petitioned the City for this extension, asking for its immediate construction as an indispensable requirement to furnish a second egress for the 412 homes in the Oak Hill Park. The membership voted to support the petition. President Wendell Bauckman indicated that the City was disappointed that the residents of the Park had opposed the Parkway which might have been built by the Metropolitan District Commission at no expense to the City, but there was no doubt that it would be built.

Former President Henry W. Keyes called attention to a hearing to be held at City Hall May 4 on important changes that may soon be made in the Zoning Law, which would change General and Private Residence areas to a so-called Residence "D" in which multiple family dwellings will be made permissible, such as the "Garden Type Apartments; however, with the protection to property owners that each petition will require 'permission by the Board of Aldermen after review of the proposed plans.' The new Zoning law would give statutory appeal to the Superior Court. Also, in residential areas the new Zoning Law, as proposed, has a requirement that houses cannot be closer than 7½ feet from boundaries.

Franklin Flashner, president of the Oak Hill Park Association told of the Dedication Plans at the Park Sunday May 21 which will be a citywide occasion, with a parade, from the New Fire Station on Dedham street to the center of Oak Hill Park.

Present at the meeting of the Oak Hill District Improvement Association were Senator Richard H. Lee, Representatives George Rawson and Howard Whitmore, President of the Board of Aldermen Wendell H. Bauckman; Arthur Price, President of the Waban Improvement Association; Eugene Brown, President of the Rolling Acres Association; Franklin N. Flaschner, President of the Oak Hill Park Association, as well as Francis S. King, Eric A. Bianchi, Henry S. Keyes, Wendell K. K. Mick and Henry S. C. Cummings, former presidents of the Oak Hill District Association.

Corrao, Held in Chicago, Denies Theft in Newton

Thomas Corrao, 43, pleaded innocent before federal authorities in Chicago Tuesday to a charge of robbing the National Guard Armory in Newton in August, 1949.

The hearing on removal proceedings was continued to May 9 before U. S. Commissioner Edwin K. Walker. His bond was set at $10,000.

Federal agents have tried to establish a link between the $1,500,000 Brink's Express Co. robbery in Boston and the armory robbery in which 33 guns were taken.

FBI agents, seeking Corrao for questioning about the Brink's holdup, found him serving a jail term in Chicago. He denied any connection with the Brink's robbery and said he was in New York at the time.

Massachusetts State Police say they have learned Corrao had nine of the stolen Newton armory guns in his possession on December 16, 1949.

Miss Elaine Reed To Be Story-teller On Station WCRB

Miss Elaine Reed of 96 Shorncliffe road, Newton, will be the new children's story-teller on the Story Time program heard over WCRB every Saturday morning at 9:30. The program has already won considerable interest and approval from both children and parents during the six months it has been on the air. WCRB, at 1330 on your radio dial, will continue to cater to the youngsters' choice of stories for as long as there is a demand for Story Time on the Air.

Report Christmas Seal Sale 7% More Than Last Year

$14,187 was reported by Miss Alice Gallagher and Mrs. Frank O. Ogilvie as the final figure in the Christmas seal returns of the Newton Tuberculosis and Health Association at its annual meeting last week at the Second Church, West Newton. Miss Gallagher said that this year's total is 7 per cent over the receipts of last year and added that the drive's success is due to the more than eight hundred hours of volunteer work by eighty-two members of the Christmas seal committee of the Newton Women's clubs.

Guest speaker at the meeting, which was attended by sixty members, directors, and others interested in tuberculosis control, was C. W. Kammeier, executive director of the Massachusetts Tuberculosis and Health League. Mr. Kammeier spoke on "The Role of the Tuberculosis Association in the Community." He said that local TB associations should use education and demonstration to further the establishment and full use of needed health services. As examples of needed health services, he mentioned rehabilitation of tuberculosis patients, community chest x-ray programs, and routine chest x-ray examinations of all general hospital patients.

Election of officers returned Donald E. Bowen, M.D., to the presidency of the association for a second year. Also elected were: T. Stewart Hamilton, M.D., first vice-president; Helene Breivogel, second vice-president; Mrs. Henry A. Plimpton, clerk; and Roland F. Gammons, treasurer.

Executive committee members elected were: Mrs. Meyer Armet; Thomas Sears Hayden, D.M.D.; Rev. Leslie Johnson; Ernest M. Morris, M.D.; Mrs. Elizabeth K. Miller, R.N.; and Harold T. Pillsbury.

Ten persons were elected to the board of directors to serve for three years: Philip O. Ahlin; Donald E. Bowen, M.D.; Thomas E. Chretien, M.D.; Rev. Louis E. Ford; Dr. Albert Gordon; Thomas Sears Hayden, D.M.D.; Mrs. John

WCRB Jackpot Now Totals $125

The jackpot on the WCRB Quiz has reached the unprecedented height of $125. The station has been certain the correct answer would come crashing through these past few weeks. In spite of thirty calls to listeners each week, however, no one has come up with the right figure to tell "How many dimes does it take to make a pound in weight?"

WCRB has made calls during the past week to the Newton residences of Robert M. Lloyd, 203 Dudley road; Paul J. Kelly, 25 Paul street; H. Stanley Meekins, 56 Derby street; Oscar H. Spear, 32 Hale street; Leonard Morrison, 34 Washburn street; Richard A. Osborne, 34 Walden street; Norman F. Reed, 851 Waverly street; Mrs. William Kenna, 21 Peabody street; Mrs. Cecilia McVarish, 105 Cherry street; Frank A. Guild, 10 Hinckley road; Aaron Proctor, 446 Lowell avenue; and Eugene A. Sampson, 2144 Commonwealth avenue.

States Some Zoning Revision Might Aid in Construction of Apartments to Meet Demands

In its annual report to the Mayor, the Board of Assessors state that "it is our opinion that if zoning was relaxed in certain quarters of the city where the older and larger type houses are located, it would encourage the owners to legitimately remodel them in certain cases into two-family houses. This would have the effect of staying the rapid obsolescence and depreciation now going on in the case of many of the older residences, and at the same time it would restore values in certain districts where values have for some time been decreasing."

The three members of the board of assessors, John D. Wright, Albert H. McAuslan and Sydney B. Holden believe such a move would bring about increased revenue for the city and rectify certain existing conditions. The report goes on to state: "Much of the depreciation is directly due to the fact that owners in many cases are without adequate income with which to maintain their properties."

"In other cases re-zoning would allow for redevelopment in some cases by removing old residences and the construction of multiple apartment houses of the better type for which there is a growing demand in this city.

Building and a citywide revision of business properties, as well as some increase in value of personal property, resulted in a total gain in taxable property of $12,541,850. There was a gain of $18,874,750 over the previous year in taxable real estate values, and a gain of $1,667,100 in value of taxable personal property.

"There were 933 building permits issued during the year 1949, with an estimated value of such construction of $8,028,178. This compares with a total of 1,496 permits issued in 1948 with an estimated value of $9,887,460."

K of C Members to Hear Talk on "Our Foreign Policy"

Rev. Francis E. Low, S.J., of Boston College, will take as his subject "Our Foreign Policy" when he addresses the members of Newton Council 167, Knights of Columbus, at their annual Communion Breakfast Sunday.

The Communion Mass will be at St. Philip Neri Church, Waban, at 8 a. m., and the celebrant will be the Council's new chaplain, Rev. Sylvio W. Barrette. Breakfast will be served immediately afterward in the parish hall in the lower section of the church. Invited guests include State Deputy John J. McDevitt of Waltham, District Deputy John J. Radley of West Roxbury, and Rev. Thomas J. McDonough, pastor of St. Philip Neri Church. James Purcell will act as master of ceremonies.

The Council members will assemble in Waban Centre and march in a body to the church at 7:45 a. m. They will be led by their Grand Knight, Louis Manzelli, and the other officers. Francis R. Sullivan, Chairman of Catholic Activities for the Council, is in charge of arrangements, and is assisted by the following members of the committee: Joseph McPherson, Thomas Dillon, Raymond Perry, Austin Morgan, Richard Fennelly, Leo Gagnon, Roger D'Angelo, Paul Kent, Harold DeVeau, and Joseph Walton.

Cub Rodeo Day to Be Held Saturday

Cub Rodeo Day is Saturday! Plans are complete for four big shows, with parades, midways, eats — plus the glamor and excitement of the Old West.

Nehoiden District in Wellesley has Packs 36 and 40 participating in their show on Fells Playground. They feature a Cowboy and Indian hunt and a cookout from 10 a. m. until show time at 2 o'clock. There will be a softball game between teams of dads. Some of the adult leaders are Jerry Cenalli, chairman, and Jack Hester, of Pack 36, and David Buxbaum, chairman of Pack 40 committee. Also active in planning the show is James R. Craig. Participation in a general Council-wide show is a new venture for Wellesley Cubs and it is hoped this will develop into an annual event.

Viking District plans for the West Newton show at Warren Playground include twelve midway games. There will be frank-forts, tonic, ice cream, and balloons to sell, pony rides and pony cart rides for the children, and real cows will be at the show. A laugh is promised by the clown stunts.

Quinobequin District has produced some colorful posters, rumored to be the work of some of the dads. A Wild West pageant with a wagon-train attack by Indians and a thrilling rescue is one of the acts. In all, five Packs from Newton Highlands, Waban, and Newton Upper Falls are participating. A few of the workers are: Norman Greene, Thomas O'Keefe, George Downs, and Everett Hersey, who is general chairman of the District Committee. This show will be at the Cold Spring playground. "Follow the arrows!"

The fourth district, Sachem, has some surprises in store for its guests at Newton Centre Playground. They too will have a parade, a midway, many acts in the main show, and the usual refreshments for sale.

All in all, it looks like quite a Cub day in Newton and Wellesley on Saturday, April 29th. The boys will be looking for you.

Scouting, which includes the Cubs, is one of the Red Feather agencies in both Newton and Wellesley.

Which Comes First?

It is a sad commentary, but one nevertheless true, that the public is lethargic when issues, vital to the future well-being of this country, are more or less ignored while issues of little or no value bring about large protests at public hearings. Why is this?

Probably to a great degree because interests, with selfish motives, organize these protests through well planned propaganda means with the hope that numbers at a hearing will carry weight while issues of great moment to the public at large are pathetically ignored due to the fact that the public is unorganized.

Take for instance two meetings held recently in this country. One had to do with socialized medicine while the other had to do with repeal of the tax on cigars and tobacco. At the first hearing a mere two hundred appeared to register opposition while at the second meeting over seven hundred attended.

Here is an excellent example of what we mean. The general public should have been far more worried over the medicine that the Government is trying to make us take than in the price of a good cigar. Socialized medicine is just one step in a planned economy where government takes over certain key functions and controls all the rest. Current proposals for compulsory government health insurance are simply a prelude to eventual socialization. They are part and parcel of an all-inclusive scheme for giving the government iron-handed power over the resources and energies of the nation. And that is certainly more important than the price you have to pay for tobacco!

Every possible means must be used to awaken the general public to the dangers that confront them. The above two instances are just an example. A sleeping nation, unaware of what is going on, is just what the socialists want.

Is This The Answer?

Those amazing "flying saucers" which have been observed during the last two years or so have been variously described as figments of excited imaginations, as an ominous new Russian weapon, and as space ships carrying observers from another planet which may be centuries ahead of the earth scientifically. However, according to a fascinating article in U. S. News & World Report, the saucers are none of these. They exist, they are manned by living pilots, and they are a revolutionary United States development in aircraft.

U. S. News has gathered and briefed non-secret data from responsible sources—including a group of scientists who were able to track a saucer for several minutes with advanced measuring instruments. And here is what it believes to be the true story.

The first successful saucer was built in 1942 and made more than 100 flights. Current advanced models are circular, 105 feet in diameter, and about ten feet thick. They have no protruding surfaces of any kind. They are powered by jet engines using a secret fuel. The power is exerted through a series of jet nozzles around the saucer's rim.

Their performance, according to the magazine, is next to unbelievable. They can stand still in the air, like a helicopter, and rise almost vertically. Their cruising speed may be as high as 600 miles an hour. Due to the helicopter feature, they do not need conventional airfields for landing or take-off. A very small space is adequate. Control is achieved by tilting the jet nozzles to desired angles, and by turning certain nozzles off and on. Maximum forward speed is attained by turning the nozzles to the rear and applying full power.

Who, then, is building and operating the saucers? The magazine thinks it most likely that the Navy—in spite of this Service's denials—is the agency. The Navy has been given twice as large a guided-missile research budget as the Air Force and no public accounting is made of how the money is spent. And these saucers could be flown from any combat ship, not just the carriers. The possible significance of the saucers is tremendous. The magazine sums it up in these words: "In war, the combination of helicopter and fast jet plane will easily outfly any present types of military aircraft. In peacetime, the safety of a nearly crash-proof aircraft may be expected to revolutionize civil air transport. It all points to a big advance in the science of flying."

There probably never has been a time when sound religious training of the child was so important as now.

H. G. Wells once said: "Moral indignation is jealousy with a halo."

We live in a chaotic world, in which old values and principles have become obscured.

There are no one-weapon wars. The maximum possible development of all the services, sea, air and ground, is the only road to military security and the only road potential enemies understand.

There is no such thing as shifting the payment of taxes to the other fellow.

Current Comments

Ex-Mayor James M. Curley invariably provokes more gossip concerning his political plans than any other man in public life.

One reason for that is that no one can be quite sure what Mr. Curley will do, including, presumably, Mr. Curley himself, who can and does make spur-of-the-moment moves and decisions, sometimes to his regret.

The latest report is that Curley may go down into the 14th congressional district and the Attleboro-Taunton-Fall River area and do battle with Minority Congressional Leader Joseph W. Martin, Jr.

A first glance you would be disposed to dismiss that report as ridiculous and preposterous to say nothing of being a little foolish.

But it's barely possible that there might be something to it.

No one, not even Curley's closest friends, can be positive what the former Mayor, Governor and Congressman will do when he returns from abroad.

There is no certainty at all that he might not even step into the gubernatorial race and challenge Governor Paul A. Dever in the Democratic primary next September.

He definitely was toying with that idea at one point late last fall, then apparently abandoned the thought. But the unpredictable Mr. Curley could change his mind several times on that between now and the date for filing nomination signatures.

The reason he probably won't run for Governor is that some of his closest friends and advisers are allied with Mr. Dever and would certainly seek to dissuade Curley from opposing the Democratic Governor.

It's just conceivable that the idea of challenging Joe Martin might appeal to Curley who may be finding time hanging heavily on his hands come next summer and his return home.

President Truman and Governor Dever both probably would try to induce Curley to make that fight, and even his old political foe, Secretary of Labor Maurice J. Tobin, might be disposed to join in to help unseat Martin.

Joe Martin, of course, is the top Republican in the national House of Representatives. He's a national figure. He was the Speaker of the House in 1947 and 1948, was counted a darkhorse Presidential possibility in '48 and presided over the Republican national convention that year and in 1944.

It would be quite a feather in Curley's cap to invade that district and knock off a Republican of the prominence of Martin.

A colorful figure, Curley would be quite a drawing card in some of the cities and towns in that congressional district, and he would stimulate considerable Democratic interest.

It should be observed, however, that Martin would be no part of a pushover for Curley or anybody else in his home congressional district. He is well entrenched there, and has done many favors, has many friends and would be equipped to give the former Boston Mayor a hot battle.

What Curley ultimately will do remains to be seen, but it's a report that has interesting possibilities.

Former Attorney General Clarence A. Barnes will announce his candidacy for the Republican nomination for Governor early next month, and even though he has not yet declared himself in the gubernatorial race Mr. Barnes appears to be moving at quite a clip.

He is receiving substantial support which presumably will increase after his formal pronouncement, and it is apparent that Barnes and former Lieutenant Governor Arthur W. Coolidge will wage a hot battle for the G. O. P. gubernatorial endorsement if it remains a two-man race between them.

Some prominent Republicans are not at all satisfied with the situation in their party at the moment, and a number of prominent G.O.P. members have been quietly told to withhold any commitments for the present because of the possibility that a candidate who would overshadow either Barnes or Coolidge may step into the field.

There has been no hint as to who that candidate might be. Actually, however, there are only three Republicans who would overshadow Barnes and Coolidge in a G.O.P. primary.

They are Senators Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr., and Leverett Saltonstall and ex-Governor Robert F. Bradford.

Saltonstall very definitely will not run for Governor. He would not even consider the idea. Lodge has turned down a number of suggestions that he make the fight against Dever. It's unlikely that he could be persuaded to change his mind, but it's within the realm of possibility.

It would take a good deal of talking to draw Bradford into the race. But if he was assured of wholehearted and energetic backing from leaders in his own party, he might consent to leave his law practice and return to the political wars.

At this moment, however, the probability is that the Republican candidate for Governor will be either Coolidge or Barnes.

Some readers have written in to ask how Coolidge and Barnes voted at the Republican national convention in 1948 and what candidates they supported at Philadelphia.

Coolidge was not a delegate to the convention and did not attend it. It was understood at the time that he leaned toward Governor Thomas E. Dewey, but since he was not a delegate he was not called upon to commit himself publicly.

Barnes stood with Senator Robert A. Taft.

Treasurer Anticipates That Tax Bills Will Be Mailed Earlier This Year

Tax bills will be sent out earlier this year in order to save interest charges on temporary loans in anticipation of revenue, according to City Treasurer Archie R. Whitman. In his annual report to the Mayor, Treasurer Whitman states:

"It is my opinion that we may anticipate the earlier mailing of the tax bills this year in order that our borrowing in anticipation of taxes will be kept at a minimum, thereby strengthening our already strong financial position."

"This has probably been the largest year in the history of the city in the matter of receipts and expenditures. A total of nearly 17 millions of dollars has passed through this office during the year. Many factors have contributed to this increase, such as (a) the active program of construction of buildings, streets and sewers, necessitating bond issues which the city has been pushing forward; (b) the natural growth of the city, resulting in increased levies of bills of all descriptions; and (c) the accelerated expenditures brought about by higher budget estimates, which this growth and the extension of services necessitates.

"The revenue cash balance was $1,774,082.27, as of December 31, 1949, compared with a balance of $1,342,113.67 at the beginning of the year. The increase of $431,968.60 is normal, and this balance should carry the city to about the same period as last year before borrowing becomes necessary.

"The non-revenue cash balance which represents the proceeds from the sale of bonds expended amounted to $1,181,389.58 as of December 31, 1949. This amount is $255,101.30 in excess of the figure $926,288.28 at the first of the year. These funds, being more or less stagnant, have been converted into 'Certificates of Deposit' and placed at interest, earning one-quarter to three-eighths of 1 per cent. During the year, $4,921.29 in interest was earned on these funds.

"Although it became necessary to borrow an additional $800,000.00 on loans in anticipation of taxes over the preceding year, the increase was normal due to the increased budget and other activities. As stated above, we have sufficient cash balance to carry us until the early part of March before new borrowing will become necessary.

"The city still continues to re-above balance. This debt, which is less than 4 percent of our total assessed valuation, is, in my opinion, very conservative for a city of our size.

"Property acquired by foreclosure, $45,100.49. This account again shows a decrease for the year amounting to $6,510.39. A total of six parcels amounting to $2,535.17 was added during the year, and 24 parcels totaling $9,045.56 were sold. At the present time there are 18 parcels in the hands of an attorney for the purpose of effecting foreclosure proceedings.

"Tax titles held by the city, $21,195.76. The total represents an increase of $352.54 in the account for the year over the previous year. The increase is accounted for by the fact that we were forced to take for non-payment of taxes, 100 parcels this year compared with only 52 last year. It is the intent of the treasurer to keep these parcels moving constantly through the Land Court in order to get them into position for foreclosure and sale, thereby returning them to a taxable status."

PINEAPPLES

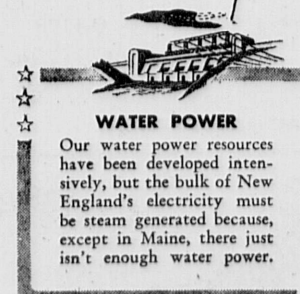

ARE CHEAPER IN

Hawaii

Out where they're grown by the millions pineapples are correspondingly cheap. 5,000 miles of transportation costs must be included in the price we pay here in New England.

It's like that with electricity, too. Coal and oil, the raw materials for making most of New England's electricity must be shipped here from great distances. That is one of the basic, simple reasons for different electric rates in different parts of the country.

But careful management and technical skill have made electricity the best bargain in the New England household budget — penny for penny the biggest money's worth of anything you buy.

WATER POWER

Our water power resources have been developed intensively, but the bulk of New England's electricity must be steam generated because, except in Maine, there just isn't enough water power.

Our Lady's Shut Out 7-0 In Patriot's Day Game

Held powerless for nine innings by some fancy chucking by Matignon's Charlie Shea, except for a last chance triple by George Pettee, Our Lady's baseball club was blanked 7-0 last Wednesday morning, Patriot's Day, at Cabot Park, making it the second straight defeat for Coach Jim Sullivan's lads.

Going into the local's half of the ninth inning, Shea served up a pitch to catcher Pettee's liking and he walloped a long drive into right center which was good for three bases, but failed to score. There were none out at the time, Shea had a no-hitter entering the ninth, but had to settle for a one-hitter and a shut-out.

Sullivan started Phil York for the Purple and Gold, and while turning in a fair job on the mound, lacked support from his mates. A total of six errors were counted against Our Lady's, which resulted in some of the scoring done by Matignon.

The visitors tallied two runs in the second and third, and three more in the eighth. Shea drew a walk in the second and singles by Taft and Landry, plus an error and a fielder's choice by McEwen and Bill McCarthy, respectively, made possible their first two runs. Another error in the third brought home one of the two runs in this inning, when O'Byrne singled and went to second on a wild pitch. He came in after right fielder Chuck Enos let a single by Shea go for a two base error. Shea later scored on a single to left by Francis McCarthy.

Matignon's Shea was in trouble only once during his fine display on the mound. Shortstop O'Byrne committed a couple of errors in the eighth, one on an infield roller by Bill McCarthy, and later in the inning on a similar play on Russ Cheetham's infield tap. Unable to capitalize on the break, Our Lady's bowed to Shea's mound brilliance.

Phil York gave up only two hits after the third frame, but was touched in the eighth for three, which added to the same number of runs. Girouard singled in this inning and then moved around to third on an error and a fielder's choice. Taft was hit by a pitch, and Girouard stole home when Taft dashed to second for another steal. York fielded a bunt by McCarthy but his throw went over Bill McCarthy's head, and Taft tallied. McCarthy later registered Matignon's last run on a single by Landry.

'John Loves Mary' To Be Presented by Auburndale Club

Things get pretty complicated when a man is engaged to one girl and married to another. That is just one of the things discovered by John in the play, "John Loves Mary," which the Auburndale Club is presenting May 4 and 5. The play, originally produced by Richard Rodgers and Oscar Hammerstein II, is a rib-tickling comedy in three acts by Norman Krasna dealing with the problems of young love in a post-war world.

Robert Reed, the director is a veteran of many Auburndale Club productions. Two of his recent triumphs were "Arsenic and Old Lace" which he directed, and "Mr. and Mrs. North" in which he played the male lead. His work for Newton Centre and for the Brookline Amateurs is known to many of our citizens.

Rehearsals are now in full swing. Nancy W. Booz and Stephen P. Mallett, Jr., are doing excellent jobs in the title roles. The cast also includes Albert B. Terkelsen, Gordon Miller, George L. Pierce, Maude C. Higgins, Harold Davis Jr., Leon E. Smith, Marge Fredericks, and W. Hunter Perry, Jr. Some members of this cast will be remembered for their past performances in Auburndale Club productions.

Lester York, the Club's drama chairman, is ably assisted by Victor Jordan, Business Manager; Edward Ufford, Stage Manager; Helen Terkelsen, Program Chairman; and Mrs. Irving P. Green, Property Chairman. Line directors are Helen Ufford and Ann Oakes.

Petee Homers Twice in Our Lady's First Win, 6-1

Led by pitcher James Murphy and power hitter George Pettee, who clouted two homers for an RBI of 5, Jim Sullivan's nine of Our Lady's snapped out of a two game losing streak Monday afternoon by winning over St. Columbkille's at Brighton, 6-1. Young Murphy pitched a nice four hitter in his first start of the season, while getting some good support from his teammates.

Our Lady's batted out a total of seven hits, Kevin Burns and Pettee accounting for two apiece. Their scoring was done in two big innings, three in the first and another trio in the eighth. The Saints tallied their lone digit in the second, but were successfully shut out during the rest of the fray.

Lead off man Kevin Burns reached on a single and took third on a sacrifice by Luke Fannon. After Bill Cronin was passed, Pettee connected with the first of his two circuit slams, and cleared the bases. Pettee reiterated in the eighth, but came through with only one man aboard. Cronin reached on another walk and then came in on a line drive by the tall Our Lady's catcher to put the locals up, 5-1.

The sixth digit was added later in the same frame on a walk to Roy MacLean, who took second on a steal, captured third on a wild throw by the catcher, and registered on Bill McCarthy's clean hit to left center. McCarthy's clout went by the center fielder, and was good for three sacks.

St. Columbkille's run was the result of 2 errors, the first by Russ Cheetham, O. L. shortstop, and third sacker Burns.

He cited that since the initiation of the blood bank in January 1946, contributions have passed the $400,000 value mark in the amount of blood given. Among the most generous donors, he said, have been prisoners in state institutions.

Ideals and Attitudes Best Defense Against Communism In Greece Says College Head

"Greece is like a man who has been very ill. The crisis has passed, but he is still weak and worn and a long period of convalescence lies ahead. This is no time for his friends to leave him. A little more help now will make more secure all that has been done for him so far," stated Carl C. Compton, of Auburndale, President-elect of Anatolia College, Thessalonike, Greece, prior to his sailing back with Mrs. Compton to his post in Greece recently.

"Our government, recognizing the strategic importance of Greece, is helping in material reconstruction, but does not include aid to education in its program. That has been left to the Greek people themselves and to private institutions like Anatolia College. The war and its aftermath have left deep scars in Greece, not only on its buildings, roads and fields, but even more in the hearts and minds of its people. Our task is to help heal these scars and help prepare young people for the great work of reconstruction that lies ahead. The Communists have been defeated in the mountains, but it is equally important to instill in the youth of Greece the ideals and the attitudes that are the best defense against either Communism or Fascism," concluded Mr. Compton, who succeeds as president of Anatolia College, Rev. Ernest W. Riggs, formerly of Melrose.

Owners of Homes in Oak Hill Park Assured Defects to Be Corrected

At the regular monthly meeting of the United Veterans' Organizations, held at the War Memorial Building, Newton Centre, recently about 25 residents of Oak Hill Park were in attendance to hear from Carl C. Mullen, chairman of the Housing Committee, which was responsible for the erection of these veterans' homes, what was going to be done towards rectifying defects in their homes, which the Kelly Corporation had promised to do and, so far, has done nothing.

Others who attending the meeting were Mayor Theodore R. Lockwood, Warren W. Oliver, treasurer of the Newtonville Cooperative Bank; Frederick A. Hawkins, the latter two members of the Housing Committee; Edward Kivell, inspector of these homes for the City of Newton, and Norman J. Mitchell, representing the Veterans' Service Bureau of Newton.

Mr. Mullen told these veterans that any and all defects will be rectified, time being the only element, and he guaranteed that they will eventually be thoroughly satisfied.

Among the Oak Hill Park residents were William O'Farrell, Raymond D. Miller, Simon Dip-sauki, Charles M. Marden, Charles Hakula, Maurice Carter, Thomas E. Flanagan, Albert Wickson and Roger H. Smith.

A rising vote of thanks and appreciation for the manner in which their complaints are being taken care of, was given to Mayor Lockwood and the committee.

Chairman William J. Maloney announced that all Newton Gold Star families, also the senior class of Newton High School, had been invited to attend the showing of the "Neurenberg Trials" film at the War Memorial Building at 8 p.m. this Tuesday. The general public will be welcomed and admission will be free.

Maloney also announced the dedication of Oak Hill Park Sunday, May 21 at 3 p.m., to be preceded by a parade through the development by the Newton National Guard companies, all Newton Veterans organizations, Newton High School Band, members of Newton's various fraternal and civic organizations, the Boy Scouts and Our Lady's Girls' drill team. General Daniel Needham will act as chief marshal.

Also mentioned was the Memorial Sunday exercises to be held in conjunction with the dedication of a monument, commemorating the lives of those Newton Highlands boys who paid the supreme sacrifice in World War II, at the Hyde School playground on the afternoon of May 28 at 3 p.m. This will also be preceded with a parade through Newton Highlands square to the scene of the monument at Lincoln and Bowdoin streets.

The next meeting of the United Veterans' Organization will be held at the War Memorial Building Tuesday evening, May 2, at 8:30 p.m.

Miss Priscilla Morse, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Morse, 20 Old Farm road, Newton Centre will be a hostess at the Friday, April 28th Tea in honor of the 20th class of the Household Nursing Association School of Nursing, 222 Newbury street, Boston. Mrs. Malcolm Morse will be the guest of her daughter, a member of the class, and will tour the school laboratories, classrooms and dormitories. Next week Miss Morse will enter the Norwood Hospital, one of four hospitals affiliated with the school, for a year's instruction and practice in bedside nursing and on completion of the 15-month course will be eligible to become a licensed attendant nurse after successfully passing the examinations given by the Massachusetts Board of Registration in Nursing.

Country Afflicted With Bloc-itis—Needs Unified Group, Says D. W. Tibbott

David W. Tibbott, who served Newton wisely and well for several years as chairman of the School Committee, has definite convictions about the needs of growing young people in a growing community, part of a growing Commonwealth and Nation. Holding a leading position among Christian laymen, he is interested in the aims of the new movement sponsored by the Council of Church Women known as the Ecumenical Register which seeks to enlist the support of Christian women in promoting Christian democratic action in broad areas where united action is needed. He stated:

"Our country is afflicted with a bad case of 'blocitis,' or pressure groups that represent selfish regional or occupational interests. We badly need a unified group which will work for the good of the people as a whole. The United Council of Church Women can render a real public service in this regard. Cutting across denominational lines, nationwide in scope, it should attract leading women who will find many ways of promoting true Christian unity in their communities."

"In the field of education, for instance, Council members can add their influence to the PTA's in supporting forward-looking school administrations. They can encourage the high level of instruction which our own Newton public schools exemplify so well, instruction which presents the democratic point of view in training for citizenship, teaches respect for members of minority groups and emphasizes the need for maintaining an open mind. They can act to keep public education completely free from political or religious control. They can advocate the continuous study of community problems that affect youth, with recommendations for their solution."

"Let the Council move quietly but purposefully toward its goals locally, but let it also develop a national voice that will be heard with concern by politicians and with enthusiasm by statesmen."

Dr. A. Wueheman Newton-Wellesley Dent'l Soc. Speaker

Dr. Arthur H. Wueheman, professor of Radiology at Tufts College Dental School, was the guest speaker at the spring dinner meeting April 17 of the Newton-Wellesley Dental Society held at the Newton YMCA.

Dr. Wueheman presented a new technique in taking dental x-ray pictures which was recently developed by Dr. Gordon M. Fitzgerald of the University of California Dental School. This technique utilizes a filter and the x-ray machine with a different positioning of the x-ray projector and the intra-oral film to eliminate distortion of teeth in x-ray pictures.

For the second time of its new program series, "Hymns of All Churches," WCRB-1330, will present the choir of the Lutheran Church of the Newtons in a broadcast beginning at 12:30 p. m., this Sunday.

"Waterfalls" to Feature All-Newton Garden Tour On May 13, 14 and 15

This year more "waterfalls" are to be shown in several of the gardens to be opened for the All-Newton Garden Tour sponsored by the Newton Tribute Foundation May 13, 14 and 15.

First, there is the miniature waterfall in the lovely rock garden of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Moerschler of 50 Colbert road, West Newton. Here, on a naturally steep hillside, is the quiet of a woodland glade "neath the oaks and evergreens, and the peace of faraway forests even though there are neighbors nearby. There are acid-loving rhododendrons, and azaleas, fragrant mayflower viburnum, the attractive and unusual chaste tree among other delightful and interesting shrubs. Large natural rocks and boulders in back have ferns tucked in natural rock crevices, shade-loving vines such as myrtle, and the delightful little spring bulbs such as grape-hyacinths and various gay narcissus. There are varieties of violas too, and the little known Bergenia, or saxifrage, as some people call it. The "waterfall" starts high on this rocky hillside and trickles down among the rocks into a delightful pool below.

In the garden of Mr. and Mrs. C. Harry Adalian at 230 Lake avenue, Newton Highlands, with its gorgeous setting against Crystal Lake, will be found another miniature waterfall. Again from the "heights" the water trickles down in a most engaging manner into a lily pool, which gives to another little "falls" and into a smaller pool below. But waterfalls aren't the only features to be enjoyed in this beautiful setting. There is an ideal picnic area, tucked away under some trees, yet close enough to the house for convenience. There are interesting statues as points of interest. Wistaria vines and morning glories climb the rocky banks to the upper terraces. Japanese maples, with their shiny red foliage lend interesting accents to the greens of other trees, and there are flowering dogwoods, at their height in mid-May. Tulips in variety are the keynote of the spring flowers, for here you will see the unusual and unique parrot tulips, as well as the double-peony-flowered tulips, which indeed resemble lovely double peonies in pinks, reds, and even yellow.

At the garden of Mr. and Mrs. F. Marsena Butts, 306 Franklin street, Newton, is no waterfall but there is a real natural brook in the rear of the formal spring garden. As you sit on one of the several garden seats in this attractive suburban garden on garden-visiting day, you'll hear its comforting little gurgle, fitting music indeed for the lovely display of bulb flowers, iris, pansies, and other lovely spring flowers. Not too large, yet not small, this garden is an excellent example of the type of thing that can be accomplished where the gardening is all done by the man or lady of the house. Spring bloom is emphasized inasmuch as the occupants of the house are away during the summer.

Seven other beautiful Newton gardens will also be open on this mid-May weekend. The hours will be from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. Plenty of "hosts" and "hostesses" will be on hand to greet visitors and answer questions on this third tour of Newton gardens offered by the Newton Tribute Foundation.

The proceeds from the garden tour will go toward the beautifying of Commonwealth avenue, where three lovely laurel and hemlock plantings have already been established as a tribute to the men and women of Newton who served in the

Seeks Transfer of $700,000 to Keep Tax Rate at $36

Mayor Theodore R. Lockwood will seek approval from the Board of Aldermen for authority to transfer $700,000 of the city's surplus to help reduce the sum which must be raised by taxation this year.

Last year $482,185 was used for this purpose and although the tax rate increased from $34 to $36 last year, the increase would have been much greater had not the transfer of available funds been made.

The excess and deficiency fund from which the money is taken is the result of the accumulation over the years of unexpended balances of various departments which have been returned to the city treasury.

While the sum of $700,000 will be sought by Mayor Lockwood, a smaller amount may be sufficient to keep the tax rate at the $36 level.

Action on the request will probably be taken at the meeting of the Board of Aldermen Monday night.

Plan First Social Gathering of New Reform Temple

The first social gathering of the New Reform Temple of Newton is planned for this Saturday evening in the Normandie Room at Norumbega Park. This very informal affair has been planned to give everyone a chance to become better acquainted before the next congregation meeting. Gershon Wheeler and Mrs. Aaron Rosenberg are heading the program committee for the event.

The nominating committee which will present a slate of officers and trustees for the next year will consist of the following names: Donald Levin, Bernard Grossman, Mrs. Vera Elking, Franklin Flaschner, Bertram Litman, Sidney Simons and Dr. Meyer Ritvo. A meeting was held Monday afternoon at the Newton Highlands Workshop to consider organization of a Sisterhood of the New Reform Temple. A very promising start was made.

war. There is one planting at the intersection of Centre street and Commonwealth avenue; a second and larger planting at Walnut street and Commonwealth avenue; and a third at Norumbega Park, one of the gateways to the City. This third planting where native dogwood, blueberry bushes and other indigenous material are interspersed with the laurel and hemlocks, has been carried out by Mr. Gill, owner and manager of the Park.

All the plantings, however, have been landscaped and supervised by Bradford Williams, well-known landscape architect residing in Newton and a director of the Foundation. The desire this year is to perfect the plantings already started and then to go on and plan more.

New Train Schedule Discussed By Newton Improvement Ass'n

At a meeting of the board of directors of the Newton Improvement Association held Tuesday night, the major discussion centered around transportation plans, particularly those relating to the new train schedules. Salient features of the proposed new schedules of trains to and from the Newton station were:

Proposed changes would result in disappearance of express service except for the 8:25 a.m. eastbound train and the 6:08 p.m. (leaving South Station at 5:50 p.m.) westbound train. Morning rush hour trains arriving at South Station between 8:15 and 8:50 a.m. would be reduced from 3 to 2.

Afternoon rush hour trains arriving at the South Station between 4:45 and 5:30 p.m., would be reduced from 3 to 2.

No trains would leave Boston before 8:05 a.m.

An afternoon train added, westbound and return, should benefit shoppers if publicized. It was stated that changes in weekday trains as proposed by the Boston & Albany Railroad in comparison with the present schedule for the Newton station and which go into effect this Sunday are as follows:

To Boston A.M.

Meeting Tuesday At Newton Corner To Discuss Zoning Survey

Urges Fire Alarms Be Given Promptly

If the average time in discovering and reporting a fire were cut in half property destruction and loss of life undoubtedly could be reduced more than proportionately.

That's the contention of Fire Chief John E. Corcoran of the Newton Fire Department, who says even the best-equipped and most efficient fire fighters can be badly handicapped by excessively delayed alarms.

Studies show that many serious fires remain undiscovered for approximately an hour or more on the average, and even after discovery alarms are frequently delayed from several minutes to as much as one hour.

One of the little understood factors is that it is better to promptly turn in an alarm from a fire alarm box than to take time out to fight the blaze. Invariably, the fire fighters could have responded to the alarm and subdued the blaze within the time it takes for the individual to realize the fire has gotten out of hand.

"The best fire defense in any community," says Chief Corcoran, "is an adequate fire alarm system, with alarm boxes conveniently located at all points of fire hazard."

"Many disasters can be averted by the simple expedient of letting the qualified fire fighters handle the fires, no matter how small they start. If every one played it safe, and didn't try to handle the emergency himself, the incidence of major conflagrations would be greatly curtailed."

Charles Crowell, 1155 Walnut street, Newton Highlands, plans to attend the Friday, April 28th Tea in honor of the 208th class of the Household Nursing Association of the Household Nursing Association, 222 Newbury street, Boston. Mr. Crowell will be the guest of his daughter, Gretta, a member of the class. The faculty will greet the parents and friends as they arrive and will conduct tours of the school laboratories, classrooms and dormitories. Refreshments served will be prepared by the students under the direction of Miss Lura Oakes Cushman and Miss Anne Gildea, instructors in foods and nutrition. Miss Crowell will leave the school next week for a year's instruction and practice in bedside nursing at the Norwood Hospital, one of the four hospitals affiliated with the school.

The first public meeting to discuss the Adams zoning survey and the way in which the changes it suggests will affect Newton Corner is to be conducted by four Aldermen at a meeting to be held in the Underwood School this Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock.

Property owners in the Newton Corner area are vitally interested in attending this meeting inasmuch as their property will be affected by zoning changes if the recommendations in the report are adopted. These proposed changes will affect both business and residential areas alike.

The meeting will be under the auspices of the Newton Discussion Group. It is hoped that everyone, especially property owners, will attend and obtain complete information. Aldermen Merrill and Cannon of Ward 1 and Aldermen Rich and Anderson of Ward 7 have been making a thorough study of this zoning report and the effect that it would have in Newton Corner. They will explain the report to the meeting and will answer questions.

An opportunity will be given to all present to ask questions and to express their ideas to the Aldermen, so that they will know how residents in the vicinity feel about the proposed zoning changes.

Archaeologists Invited To Join Local Chapter

Amateur or professional archaeologists and Indian relic hunters of Newton and vicinity are invited to send their names, addresses and outlines of their specific interests in the field to the local chapter of the Massachusetts Archaeological Society.

Among local members is Walter Vosburg of Newton Highlands. Persons interested in learning more about the group and its work are asked to write to Chapter President J. Alfred Mansfield of 398 Charles River road, Watertown or to Kenneth N. Ayres, 36 Wilmet road, Waltham, public relations chairman.

Miss Dorothy Underhill was a member of the group of sixteen Briarcliff students who went to Bermuda for the Spring holidays. Miss Underhill, who is a member of the senior class at the college, is president of the House Committee and a member of the Student Council. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Underhill of 227 Windsor road, Waban.

Constance Ford, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Notague Ford, 112 Institution avenue, Newton Centre and a sophomore at Denison University, Granville, Ohio, has been elected to Crossed Keys, a junior women's honorary for activities and leadership.

Beware Men— You're in the Minority Here

If a bachelor in Newton can't find a gal of his choice here, then he might just as well go some place and lead a hermit's life. For the cold fact of the situation is that, according to the canvass recently completed by the police, there are 31,593 women 20 years of age or over to only 24,673 of the stronger sex residing here.

And if any bachelor is reading this, perhaps it will be a little more easier for him to start in to find his choice by listing the men and women, or should we say women and men, by wards. Here they are:

Ward	Women	Men
1	2,748	2,353
2	5,371	4,006
3	4,555	3,808
4	2,879	2,466

By means of the Marie Perier Foreign Student Scholarship Fund two displaced persons will be able to continue their studies at Mount Holyoke College next year. A Newton girl, Miss Dorothy Tibbott, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David W. Tibbott, Newton Centre, is raising money for the scholarships as a member of the Student Fund committee at the college this year. Marie Perier, in whose honor the scholarship fund was named, was a Belgian student entered at Mount Holyoke but killed in an airplane crash on her way to school in September 1946. Besides the fund drive, which is being held through April 13, the committee has sponsored tag sales, an Amateur Night and match sales, to aid the scholarship fund. Miss Tibbott is a sophomore at Mount Holyoke.

Constance Ford, sophomore at Denison University, Granville, Ohio, took a solo part in the recent dance recital. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Montague Ford, 112 Institution avenue, Newton Centre.
